The cats came

On the sidelines, seniors Brad Horne and Kevin Ford give a high five sign after the Wildcats trounced the Klein Bearkats, 21-0.

That's the breaks when you put one team against the other and the survivor of the match goes on to bigger and better things. It's like that in all sports, but for the Plano Wildcats, "America's high school football team," winning is the name of the game.

Knocking off Plano East Senior High in the last game of the district season, the Wildcat football team held a perfect record of 10-0.

The pep rallies before the playoff games showed the appreciation of the maroon and white clad fans for their football team. Special guests included the Mayor of Plano, Mr. Jack Harvard.

Cheerleaders sideline their much used spirit props at each game.

At the Plano vs. Klein playoff game in Texas Stadium, seniors and juniors alike show that Plano's ranked No. 1 in the state.

to play

It was an easy schedule for Plano, as the playoff team won four consecutive games to find themselves in the semifinals. The Cats then met their match against the Midland Lee Rebels, who crushed the hopes of a state championship. After a winning season, one game in far west Texas told the Cat's tale.

Suffering from an injury received against Pinkston, fullback Ron Brennan watches from the bench.

Seniors Scott Faulkner and Greg Bauman leave the field after the team's playoff hopes were crushed.

Planoettes Michelle Eatherly, Brenda Vines, and Maria Maggiore display their emotions as the Cats lose a heartbreaker to Midland Lee.

Interests prove puzzling

From cosmetology to agriculture, classes were available to students in not only the required courses but in vocational training and a variety of electives.

Just like pieces of a puzzle, students had separate interests. It took an enrollment of 2,221 juniors and seniors to put together this diversified puzzle.

again

Media coverage became second nature to most students. TV cameras and crews from Dallas area stations were common sights on the large senior high school campus.

In the fall, the opening of school brought the news crews to the school as WFAA — Channel 8 covered registration. Foreign exchange students received domestic publicity as more than 15 European and Asian students enrolled.

While there was some unhappy press due to teenage suicides in the area, there were some positive aspects also reported. In its second year, a group called SWAT (Students Working All Together) brought another round of spotlights and microphones. SWAT members were interviewed about the objectives of the innovative program whose members helped students adjust to school life on a large campus.

During football season, KDFW-Channel 5 covered the playoff pep rally and taped a feature on general school spirit.

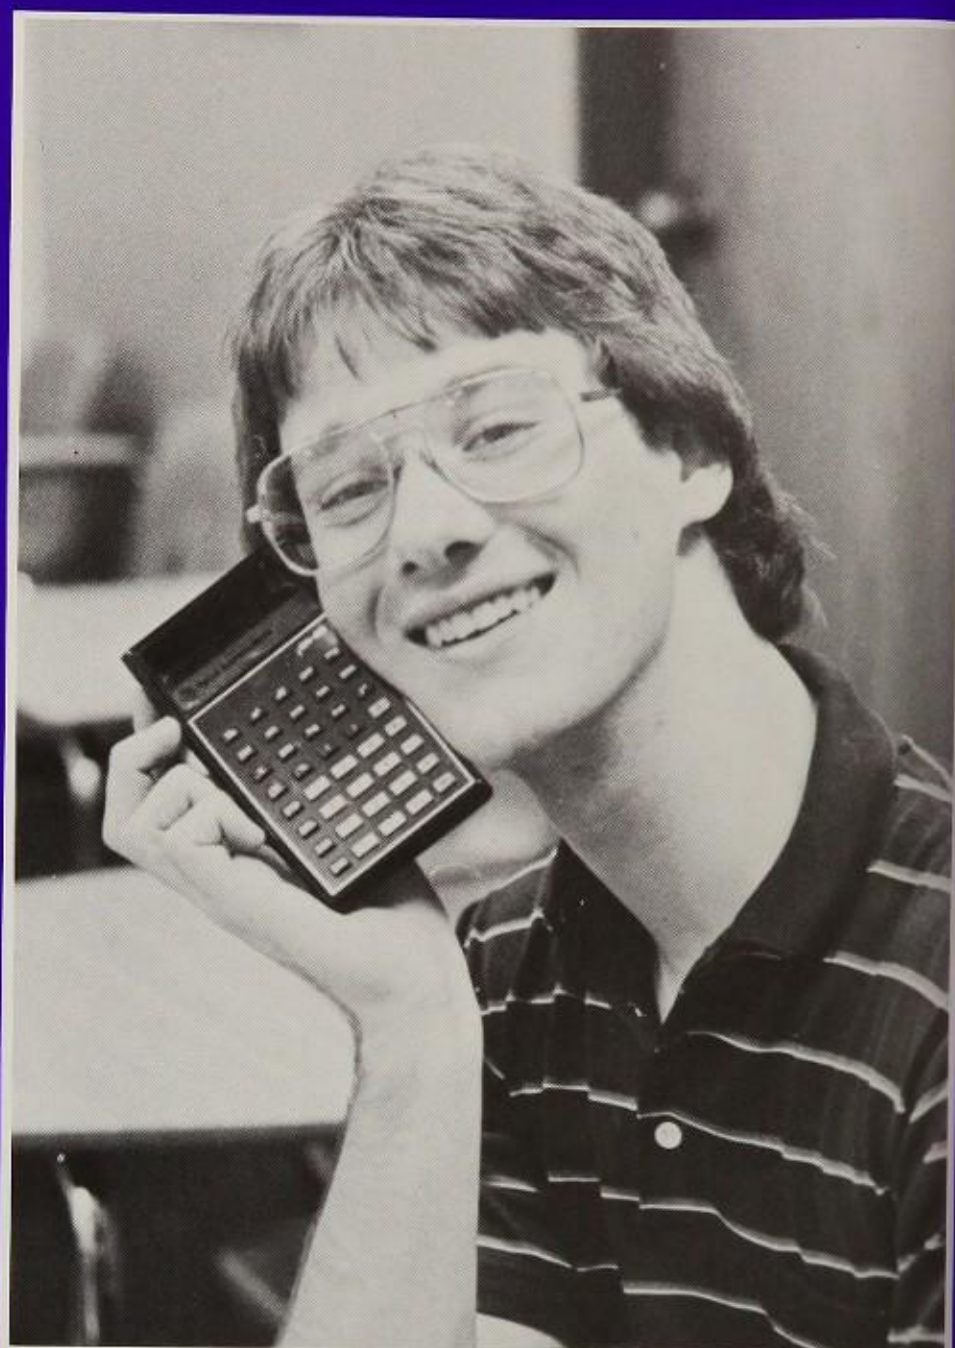

By the time the Southern Association conducted its 10-year evaluation in March, students were so accustomed to visitors, they hardly even noticed.

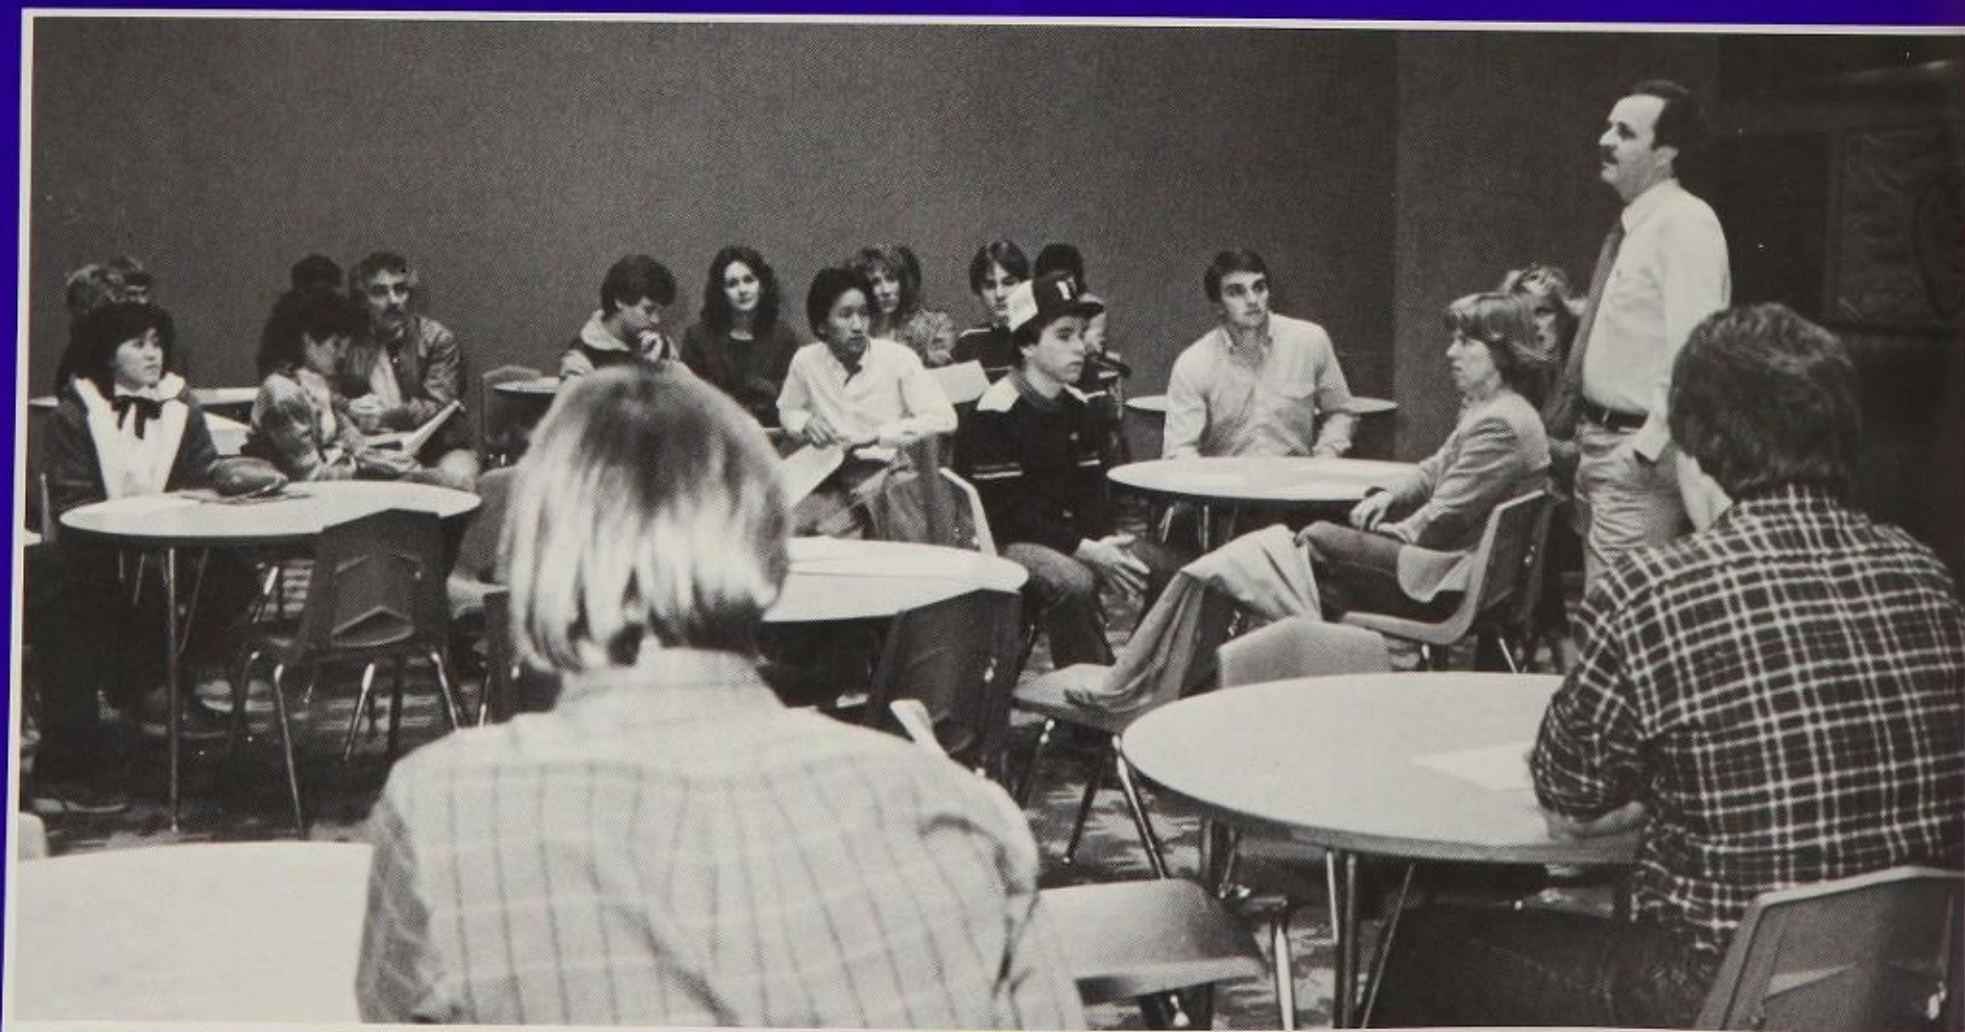

In August, at orientation, a news representative from WFAA-Channel 8 talks with foreign exchange student Henrik Haveman.

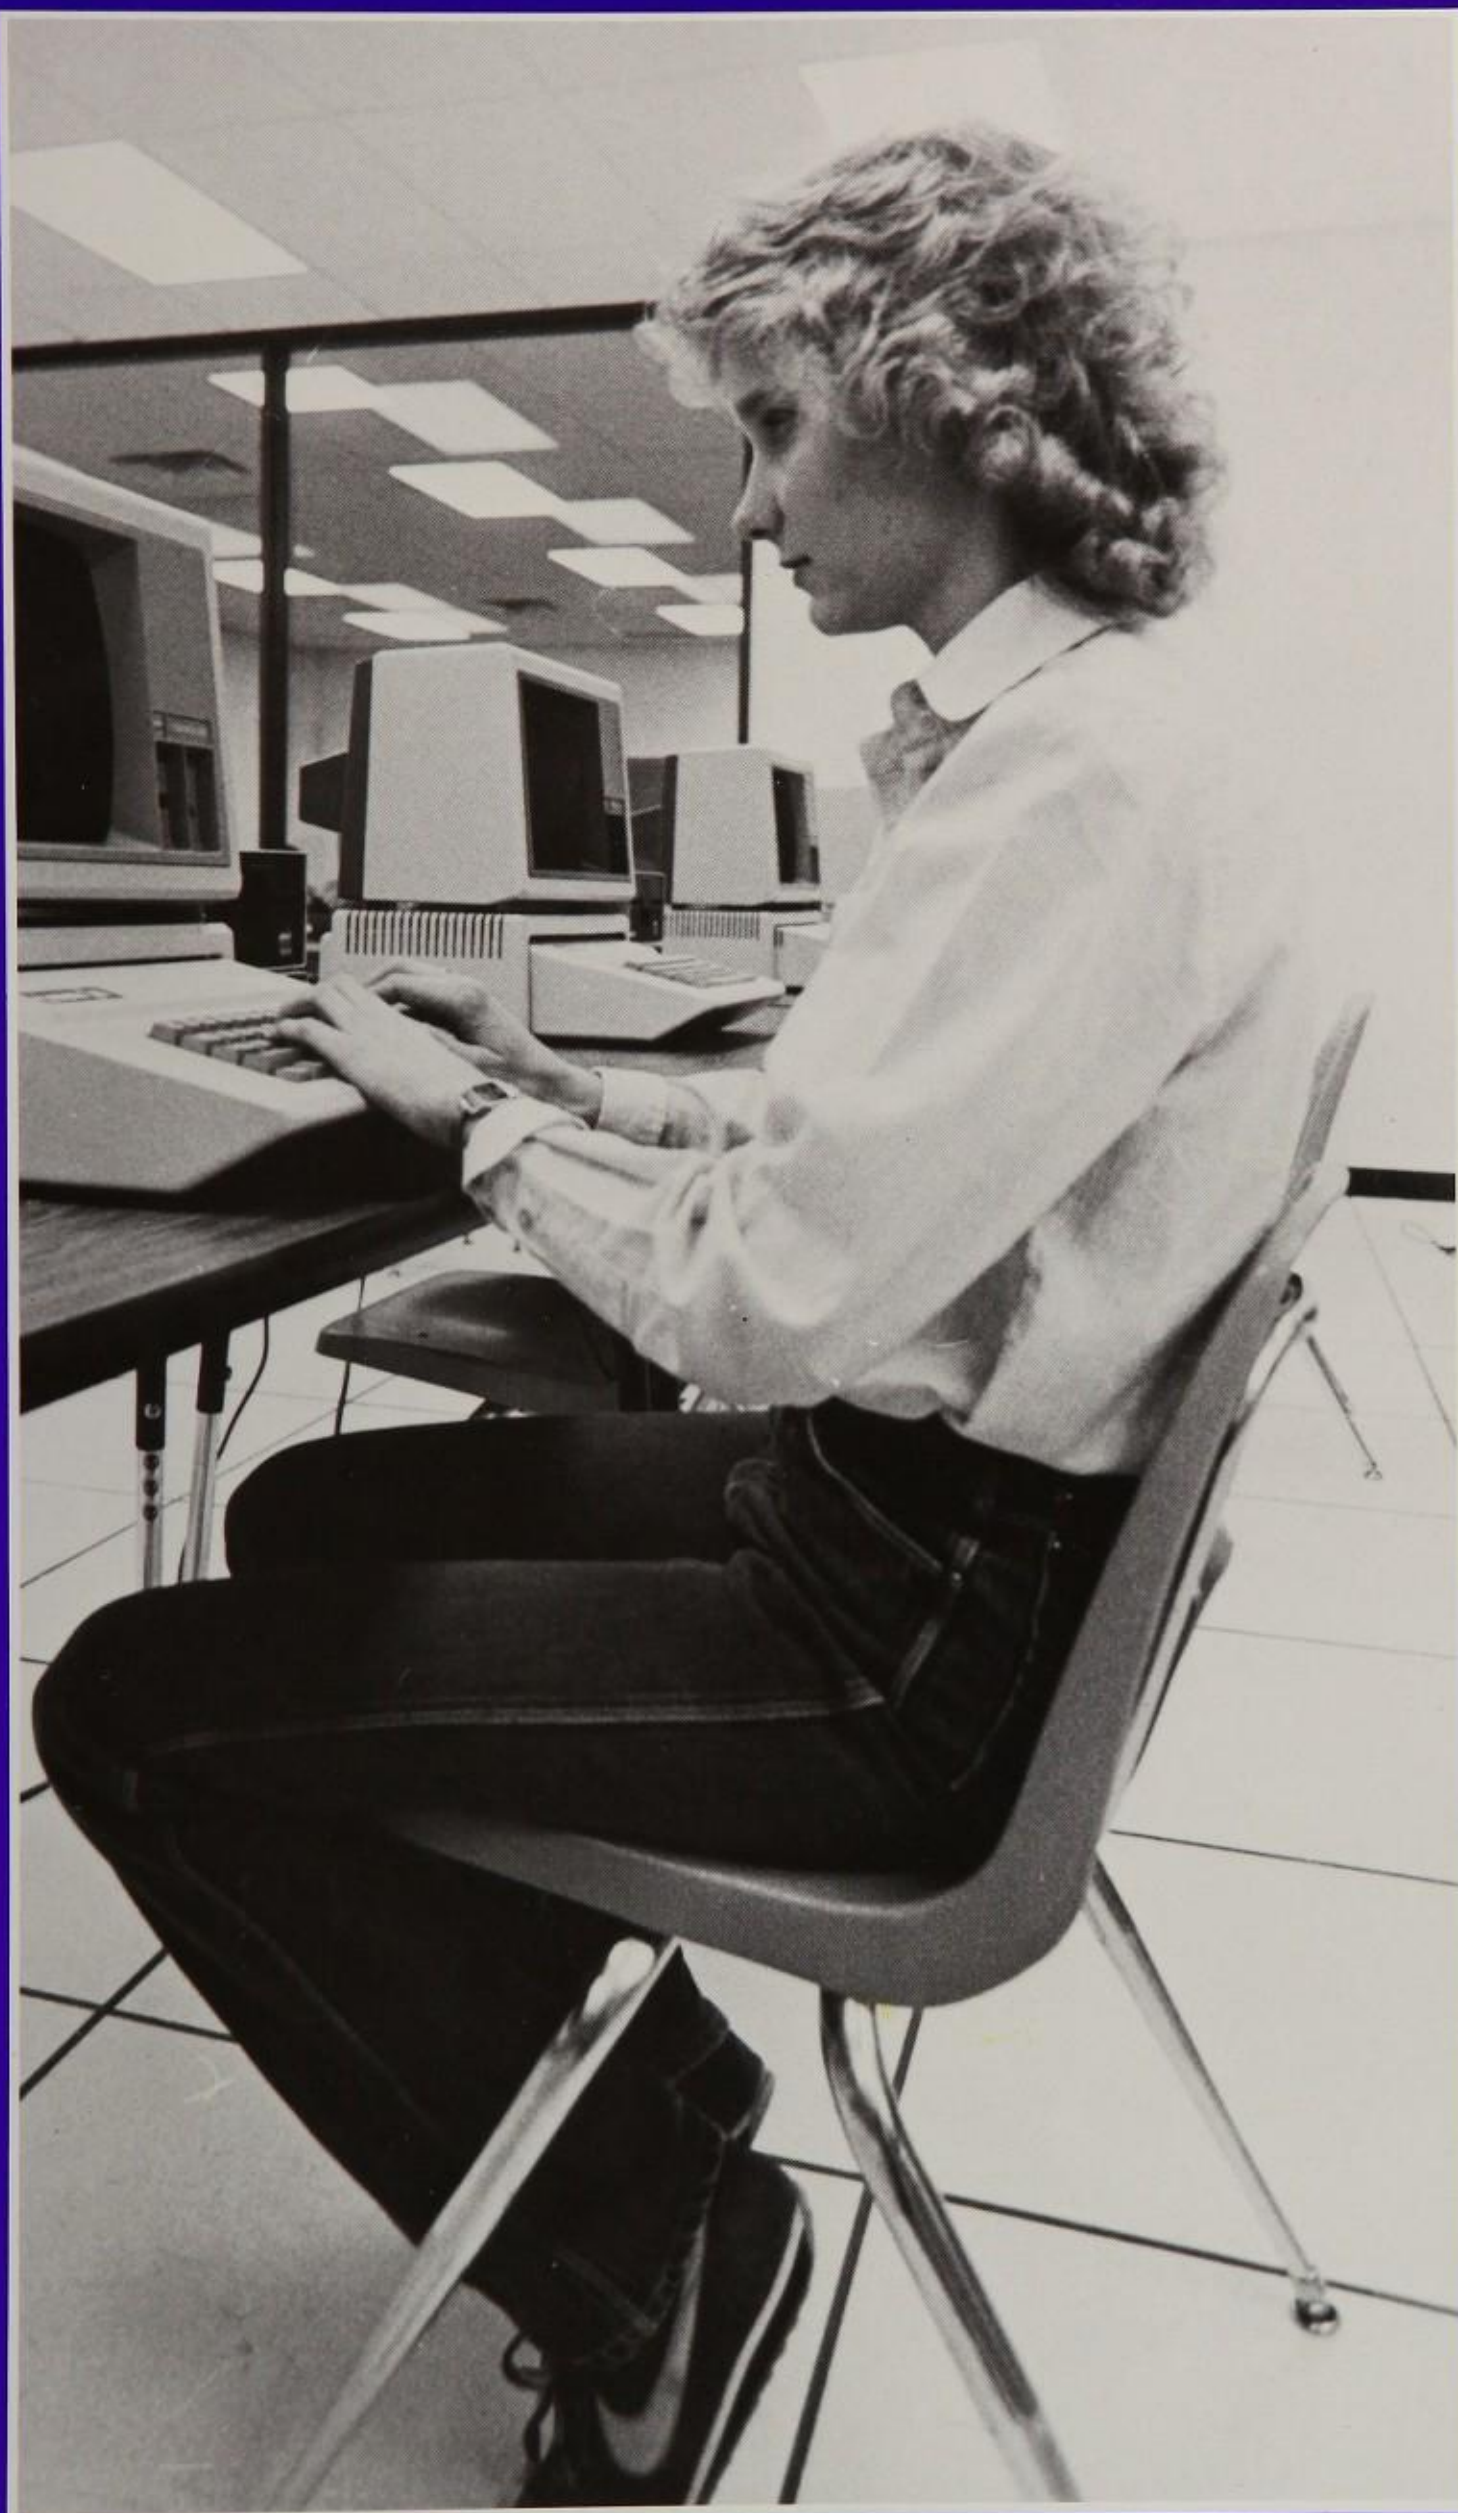

In their AP Biology classroom, A-Team members Lisa Hall and Tonya Thompson learn more about muscle structure by dissecting a cat.

As a member of the Science A-Team, senior Kirk Strozewski enthusiastically takes on an additional project.

Orientation was the first step for A-Team candidates as instructor Jerry Mullins explains the innovative science program.

Learning for learning's sake

When talk about the A-Team was heard at school it wasn't about the NBC television show, but the after-school program initiated for students who wanted to further their learning experiences in English, social studies, mathematics, science and computer science.

Prompted by the state and local studies concerning today's education, the concept of an extracurricular learning experience was developed by PSHS's committed administrators.

In its' initial stage, the A-Team was designated for 10 juniors and 10 seniors with high grade point averages and teacher recommendations.

Students spent time beyond regular school hours for instruction, special projects, and guest speakers like former astronaut Harrison Schmidt. Social studies A-Team was invited to the Dallas Latin American seminar while members of English A-Team visited a special exhibit at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts.

"Discussion and in-depth research to further the student's potential was basically the aim of A-team," said Associate Principal Larry Guinn.

"More than 20 teachers were involved in the program and each was as committed and excited about the project as were the students," said Mr. Guinn.

Computers become educational tools as senior Linda Noton sets up a specialized program.

LET'S GO HAWAIIAN

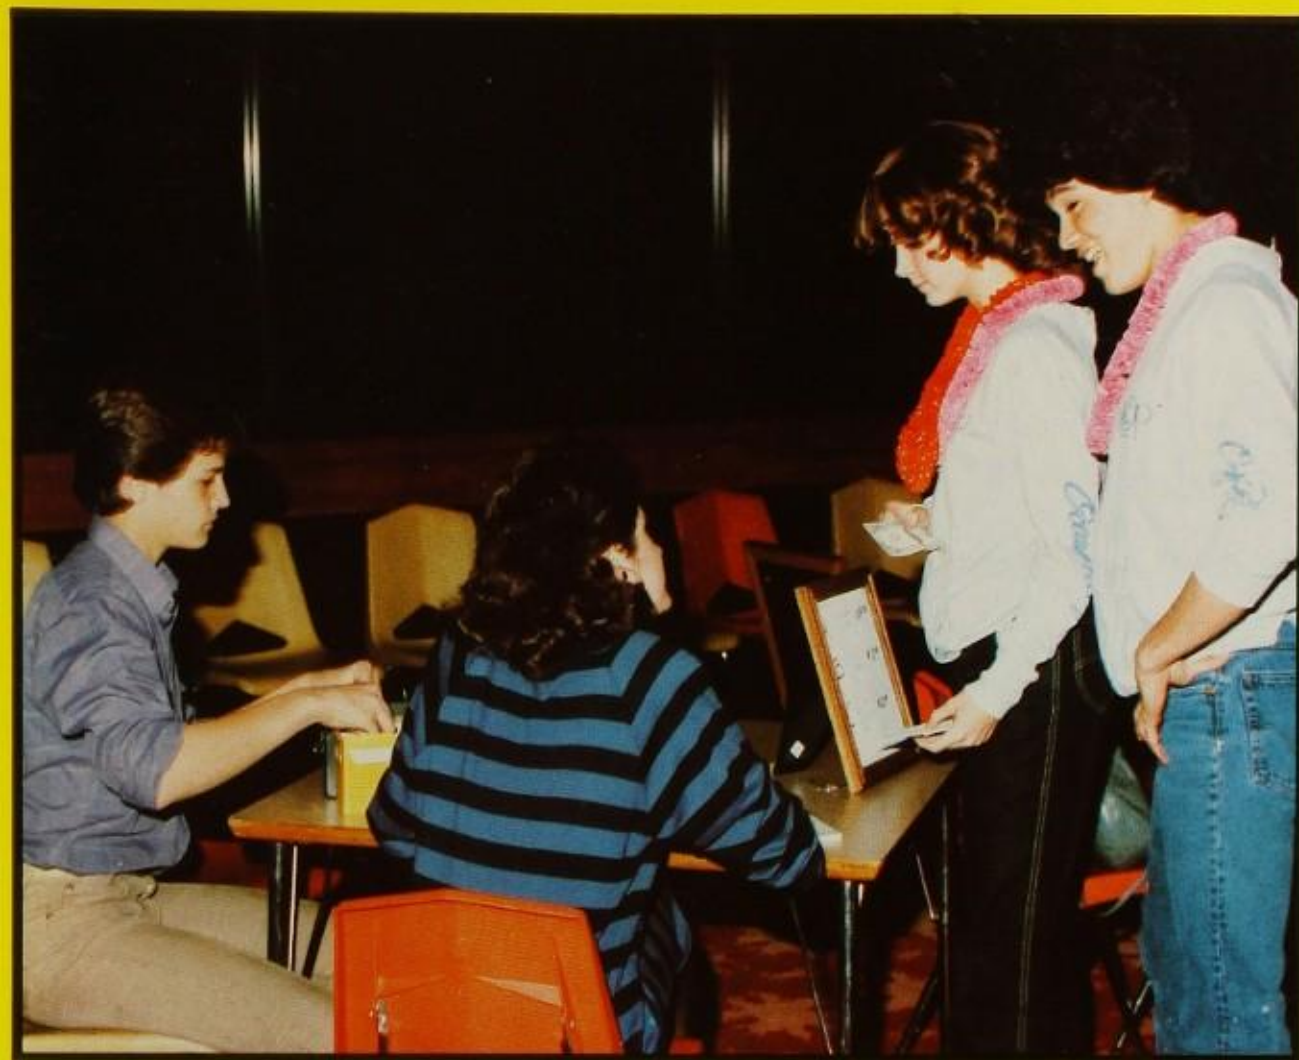

A group of Hawaiian styled girls and guys gather together at the Sadie Hawkins Dance to show off their beach attire.

While Sadie Hawkins Day originated in the Al Capp cartoon "Li'l Abner," it has become associated with leap year since, traditionally, on both observances, girls could pursue unattached males without seeming too bold.

While Plano has a Sadie Hawkins dance each spring, this year seemed more appropriate since it corresponded with Leap Year. Girls took advantage of the occasion during the last week of February to ask guys to the Sadie Hawkins Dance. The theme centered around a Hawaiian beach scene. Colorful leis were sold by Junior Class officers during lunch on February 29th and were worn to the Saturday night dance.

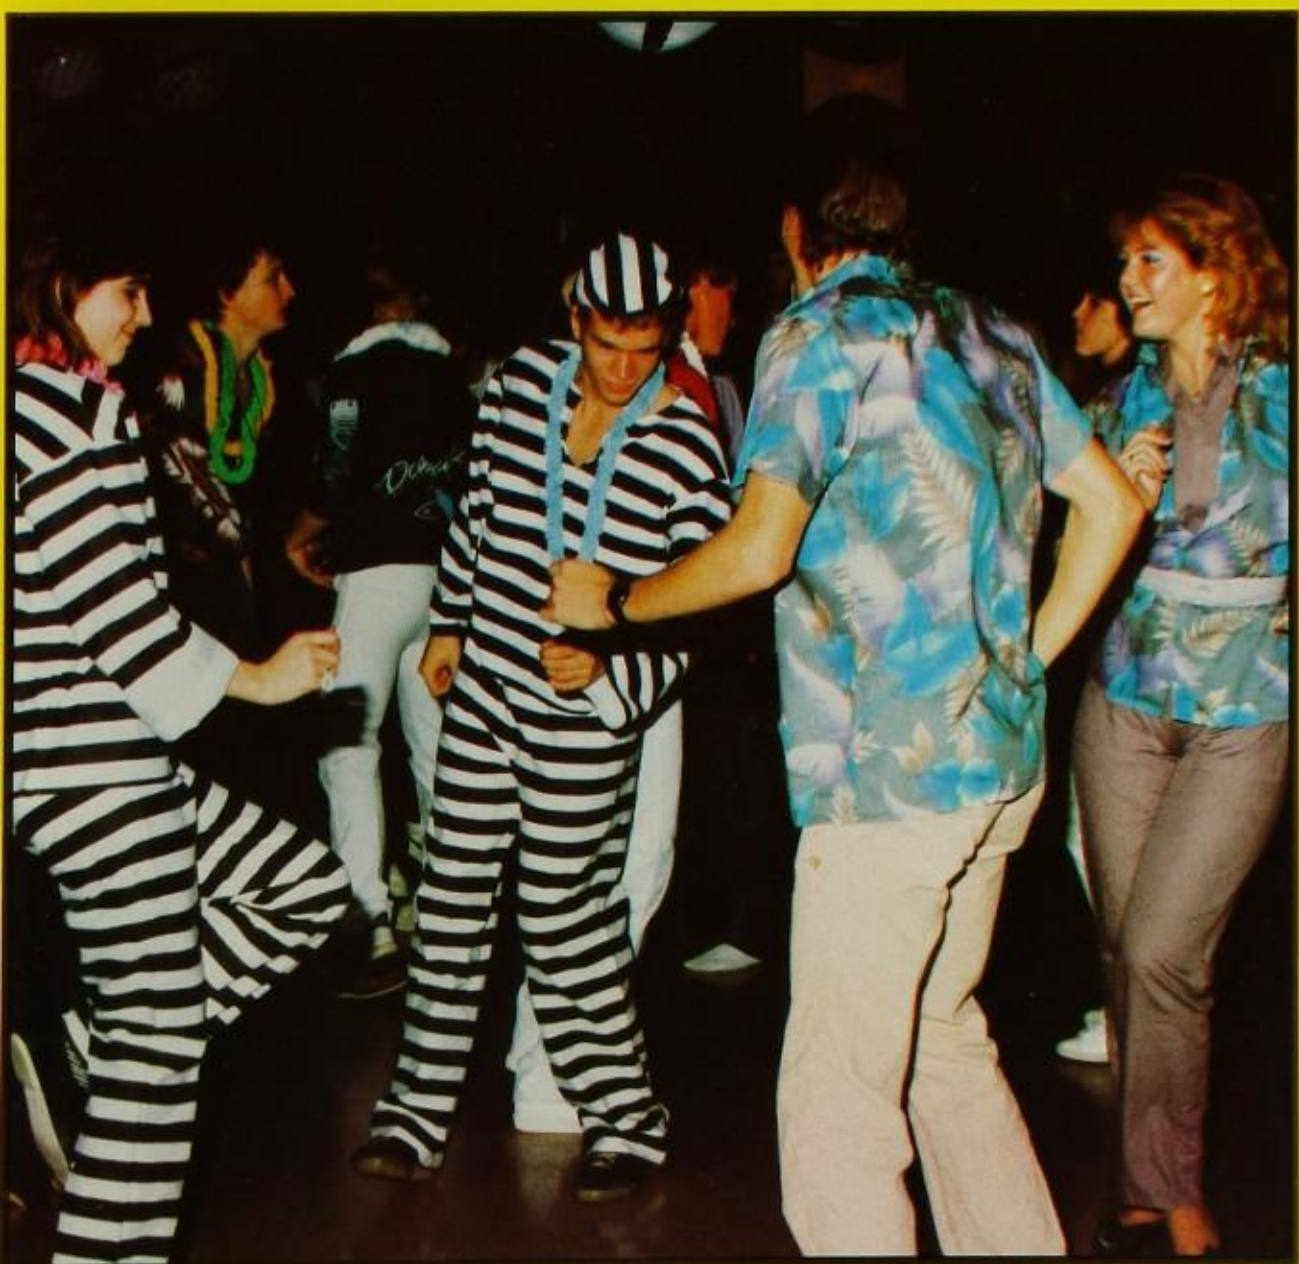

During lunch, students purchase leis from junior class officer Kim Knightstep.

During the Sadie Hawkins Dance, Jay Fisher and Denise Pumpelly jam to the music provided by radio station 92 1/2 KAFM.

Seniors Maria Kole and Jonathan Mack break away to dance with Mary Holm and her date.

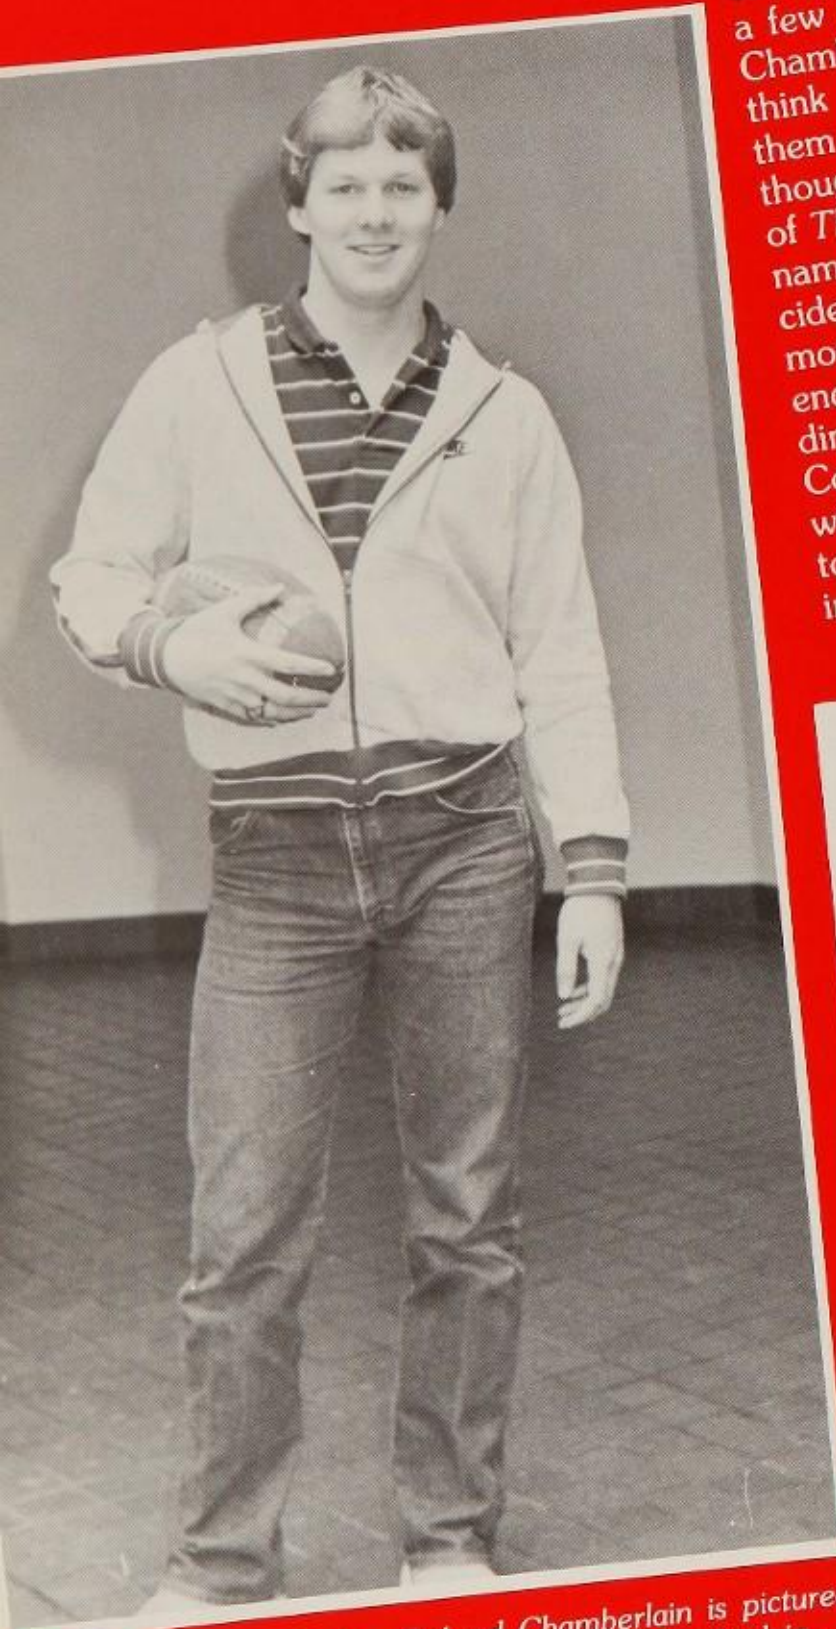

Dressing to the theme "Sea 'n' Double," junior Randy Culpepper and his date wear matching Hawaiian shirts and sarongs.

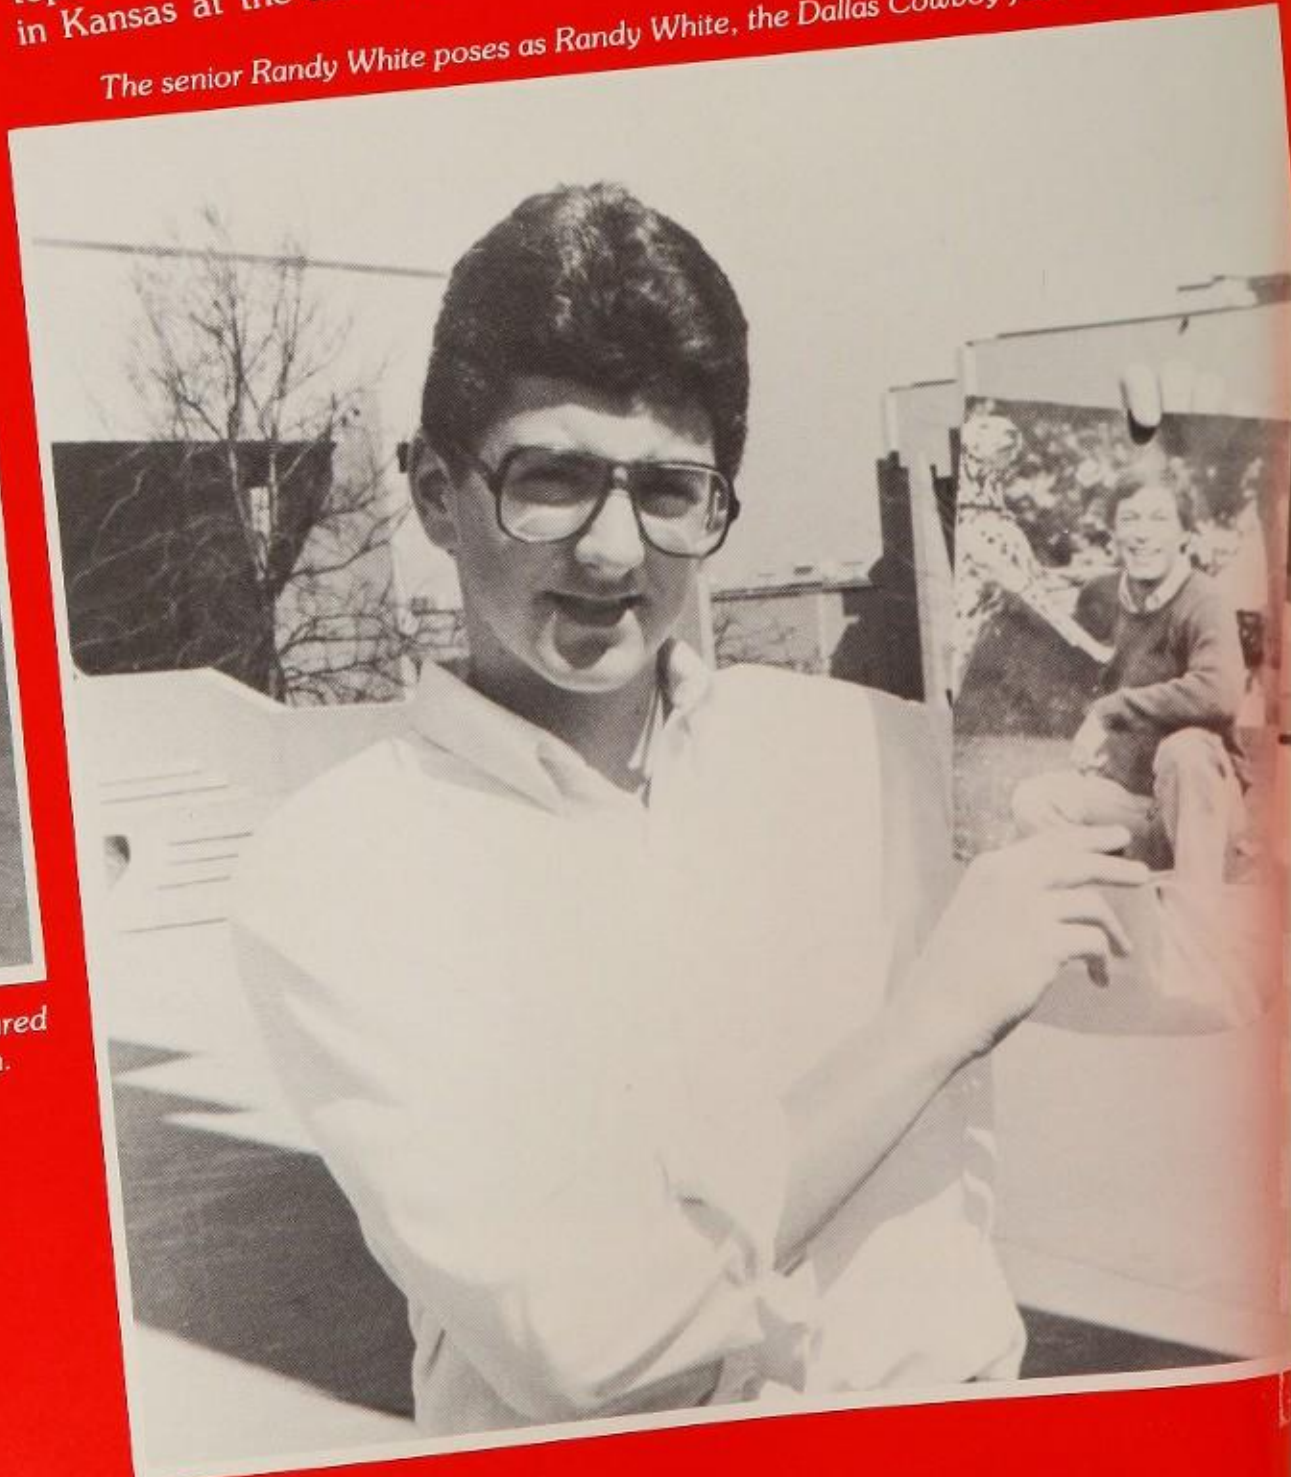

Stranger Than Fiction

Would it seem strange to find Randy White, Richard Chamberlain, or Bryan Adams enrolled in one of your classes? Or how about having two people with the same names who weren't even related? Truth can be stranger than fiction, as in the case of a few Plano students. Senior Richard Chamberlain has often had people think he was joking when he told them what his name was or they thought he was named after the star of The Thorn Birds. However, he was named after his father, just a coincidence that it was the same as the movie star. Senior Randy White also encountered jokes and misunderstandings. He first heard about the Dallas Cowboy football player Randy White when he won the Outland Trophy for top defensive player. Randy was living in Kansas at the time and thought it was unusual, but when he moved to Texas the confusion really began. When he introduced himself as Randy White the response was usually a look of disbelief. Despite annoyances, having a famous name can be fun. Another source of perplexity for students and faculty was students with the same names. Take for example the two Paul Garcias and Steve Edwards. Messages from the office were often for "the other Steve" or "the other Paul." The two Steve Edwards found difficulty last year when one tried out for cheerleader and the other for mascot. The only way to make sure people voted for the Steve of their choice was to distinguish them by their middle names. Having "celebrities" and people with identical names may seem strange, but then "what's in a name?"

"Killer! Awesome! Bogus!" These words echoed through the halls as today's young people responded to the world around them.

Not only did most students dress in similar attire, and enjoy the same music, but they also had a language all their own.

"Valley Girl," a song by Frank Zappa and his daughter Moon Unit, satirized the current trend of a more figurative language among teenagers. Though "gag me with a spoon" didn't last long, other phrases such as "I'm sure," "like wow" and "like oh my gosh" hung around.

Instead of a simply "good grade," an A became "excellent." Plano students didn't "ride to McDonald's to eat," they "cruised to Mickey-D's to munch out" or "graze." Guys became "dudes" and "babes" and girls were "chicks" and "PYT's" (pretty young things.).

If English teachers grimaced they needed to reconsider the advantages. After all, students were just showing they had a way with words.

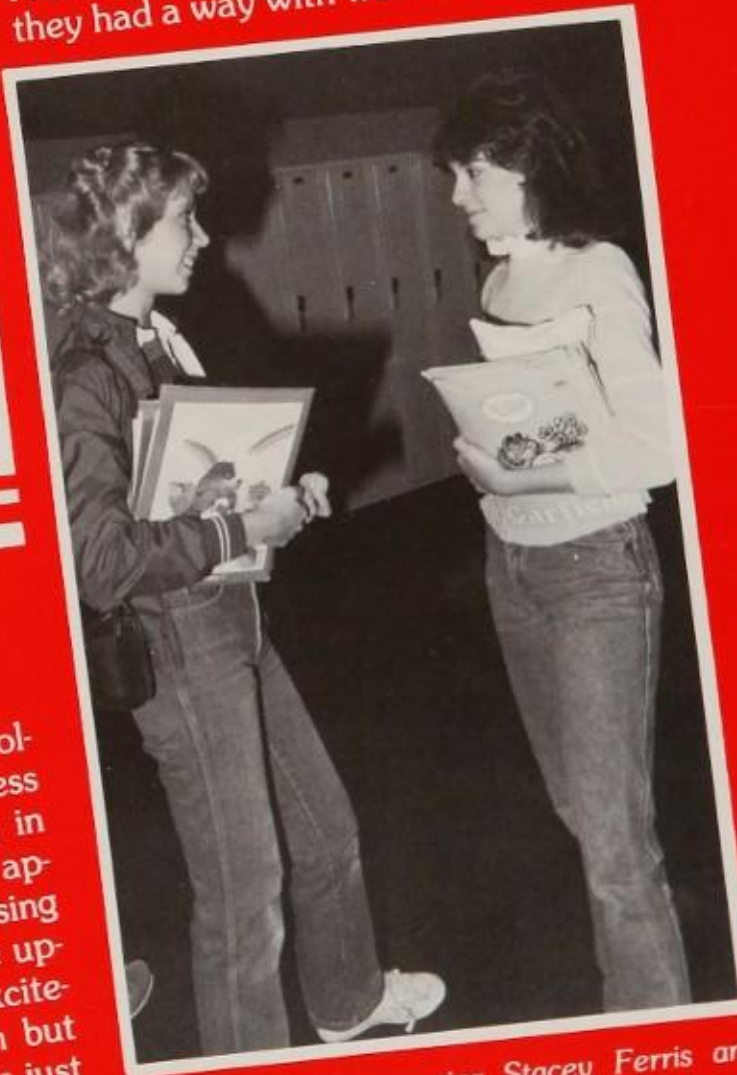

Senior Susan McGee has the essentials of a Texas Tech wardrobe — a Raiders sweatshirt.

Seniors Plan Next Move

With the beginning of second semester, seniors began to think of grade point average, class rank, and the future. College-bound students worried about selecting and then being accepted to the college of their choice. Popular with this year's seniors were Baylor, Stephen F. Austin, Texas A&M, University of Texas, and North Texas State.

Once a student decided on a college or university, the tedious process of filling out applications, sending in transcripts before deadlines, and applying for scholarships and housing became constant reminders of the upcoming independence. The excitement and worry had only begun but college-bound seniors knew it was just a part of "moving on."

Between classes, senior Stacey Ferris and junior Stephanie Shaver chat a minute.

Plano Spirit... Let's Hear It!

Planoettes keep the momentum going from the bleachers with "LUV THEM CATS" posters.

"V-I-C-T-O-R-Y that's the Wildcat battle cry!" Friday morning pep rallies and Spirit Week brought enthusiastic response from students. The week before Homecoming was designated "Spirit Week."

Halloween celebrations begin early as junior Rick Cinclair dresses up for class.

Monday was set for "Hats off to the Cats," followed by "Lasso the Lions" on Tuesday when supporters dressed western. Students publicized their favorite college on Wednesday's "College T-Shirt day." On "Warm up to the Wildcats" day, fans wore warm-up suits. Friday was a traditional maroon and white day. The weeks activities proved worthwhile as fans saw Plano overtake Greenville 28-20. To continue the momentum of spirit, Art Club followed with a week of selling painter hats to "Paint the Panthers." As the Wildcats went to the playoffs against the Mesquite Skeeters, students rallied with fly swatters.

Running on to the field to meet Temple, the Wildcats break through the spirit banner.

Gabel, Wildcats Reign on Homecoming

Two-Day Affair:

Homecoming preparation was a familiar scene with girls rushing to the florist to pick up their boyfriend's boutonniere and then off to a department store for a last minute item. Guys picked up their suits from alterations and stopped at the florist for their date's mum or corsage.

Friday night, girls waited for their dates as the guy tried to find her house or guys waited on the living room sofa while their dates finished getting ready. Either way, both were excited to start the evening.

Then it was off to the football game at Clark Field. Girls wore their mums and walked hand-in-hand with their dates to the senior section. Halftime was a blaze with maroon and white as balloons were let loose from bags and sent skyward. Plano's win over Greenville 35-20 kept fans on their feet. After the game, some couples went out for a snack while others retired early for the ACT test that was scheduled for Saturday morning.

After Saturday's resting or testing, the excitement started again. Dates were set around 5 or 5:30 p.m. with picture taking by the girls' parents, a necessity. Dressed to impress, couples, double dates, and some triple dates dined at popular Dallas restaurants such as Old San Francisco Steak House, Cafe Pacific, and Baby Doe's. After dinner, it was off to school to see and be seen and dance to Nippy Jones and the Night People in the cafeteria. Couples could get their picture taken in a special archway. Then it was time to say good-night, to remove the corsage and store it in a book of memories — a Homecoming to remember.

At the Homecoming dance, a group of students talk during a short break before returning to the dance to Nippy Jones and the Night People.

Seniors Jim Kuenzer, Pat Callahan, David Phillip, Kyle Lehrmann, and Darren Fair take in some sun on the beaches of South Padre Island.

Time Out: Spring Break

There is something about the miles and miles of hot white sand and cool salty waters that attract people to the sunny beaches of Padre Island. During spring break, hundreds of thousands of high school and college students traveled in caravans to the Texas coast to enjoy a week of fun in the sun. While the majority of students blanketed the beaches, others took the opportunity to ski the mountains of Colorado, to cruise the Caribbean, or tour the ruins of Rome.

Taking their Spring Break in Italy, seniors Carol Beavers and Deanne Dodson stand inside the ancient ruins of the Roman Coliseum.

Juniors Jeff Gurney and Rich Duvall spend a day shopping in the markets of Mexico.

Time caught up with students in the spring as they discovered there was a lot to accomplish before the end of school. Reports came due, competitions were held, and after school activities seemed endless.

Plano students donated more than 325 pints of blood in the annual spring blood drive.

Months of planning were evident as Key Club sponsored its annual Superdance. More than a hundred students participated in the 16 hour dance to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Most seniors made a final effort to raise their grades while others retook the ACT or tried to test out of college hours by taking advanced placement tests. Juniors concerned themselves not only with their current GPA but with setting up a schedule for their senior year.

INTRAMURALS

In April, 13 teams formed for intramural softball. Under the guidance of Coach Bob Weir, the tournament was played on a double elimination system, with the winners of each game moving up the ladder. Tuesday and Thursday games were held for six weeks.

On the final afternoon of competition, the field was narrowed to Mr. Joe Arnett's Bunsen Burners, and Mrs. Suzanne Dowd's D.D.'s. Taking the victory were the Bunsen Burners as they defeated the D.D.'s 11-2.

SR. PRESENTATION

Those who wanted to know who Mr. and Miss PSHS were went to Senior Presentation. There they also found out the seniors "Most Likelies." Between presentations, students listened to the bands "First Glance," "Southern Pride," and "The End." Other seniors took the stage to dance, sing, and tell jokes. The event closed with a slide show and the announcement of a tie for Miss PSHS between Renee Allen and Tamela Milam, and Mr. PSHS Scott Huckabay.

Dance partners Leslie Redden and Trey Orena choreograph an original routine to Berlin.

Seniors Theresa Ishmael and Chris Elmer take their turn to announce "Most Naive."

As the early morning clouds blew away on Saturday May 5, clubs began setting up booths around the pond for a day of festivities.

By 10 a.m. students and other members of the community arrived to participate in Spring Fling. Plants, beef, art work, and creatively designed clothing could be purchased at student booths. Refreshments were available at stands staffed by HOSA, Alpha Student Council, German Club, FTA, Key Club, and French Club. Beta Student Council sponsored a walk-a-thon to benefit the Plano Crisis Center. Children enjoyed face painting by Child Development ment as well as Delta Student Council's moon walk, and Student Senate's dunking booth. By 4 p.m., the orchestra had played in concert and only a few people lingered to buy a last German pretzel.

PROM PREPARATIONS

As early as March, girls started planning for the senior prom. Dresses had to be selected and fitted and shoes and accessories considered.

Guys planned for the gala event by reserving limousines and dinner at fancy restaurants. Flowers had to be ordered and tuxedos had to be rented. The morning of May 12 dawned with a flurry of last minute action as the seniors of PSHS planned for THEIR prom.

Seniors attend service

Students tried out their caps and gowns for the first time at Baccalaureate services held in the Activities Building Sunday, May 28.

From St. Marks Catholic Church, speaker Michael Carrell spoke to the future graduates on the subject of "Celebration." Reverend Timothy Church gave the invocation, and a special performance was presented by the school choirs.

The service closed with a benediction by Pastor E. M. Hay. Caps and gowns were folded away for a week.

Awaiting the processional, seniors wait in the line.

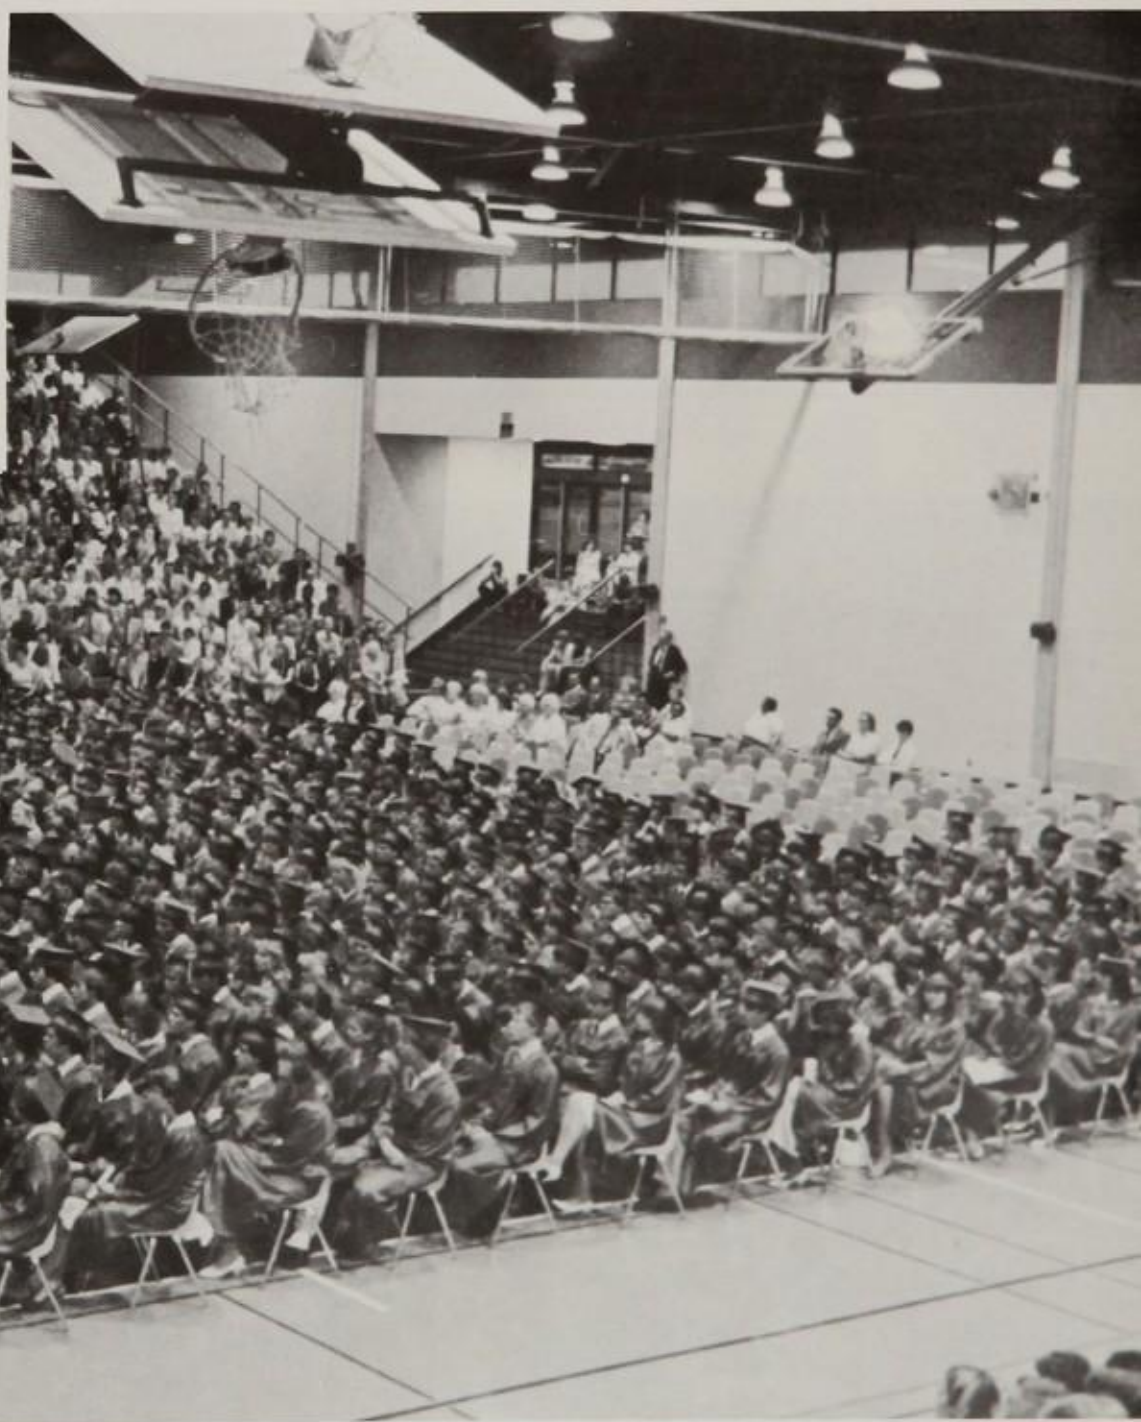

After Baccalaureate services, seniors Paula Romoff, Melissa Smith, Rhonda McHargue and Lori Brown make plans for the evening.

◀ "Celebration" was the topic for speaker Michael Carrell's address.

Close to 850 seniors were on hand to hear speaker' Michael Carrell as well as a presentation by Concert Choir and Chorale.

At the close of graduation, seniors gather as a class for the last time to sing the school's Alma Mater.

Stage set for Saturday

More than 1,000 graduates made their appearance at Moody Coliseum June 2 at 2 p.m. Most were grateful just to be able to sit down after standing in line for an hour before the ceremony.

Class President Pres Glenn presided over the celebration, introducing speakers like Valedictorian Linda Noton who addressed the crowd on "Education." Then, in a final flourish, each senior's name was called as family and friends cheered the walk across the stage.

Senior Kristen Allen accepts congratulations from school board trustee Ross Johnson.

No one can stop a smile after walking off the stage at graduation.

▼ SENIOR CLASS FAVORITES: Kevin Ford, Paula Romoff, and Jonathon Mach

It is time for the Class of 1984 to say farewell to Plano Senior High and say hello to all the challenges waiting for us in the future.

Plano has a tradition of excellence. For this we give thanks to the teachers and administrators. Because of our strong academic backgrounds, we shall go forward to become the teachers of tomorrow, to reach out toward the goals we've set forth.

I want to thank the seniors of 1984 for giving me the honor of serving as your class president. It has been an honor that I will never forget.

*Pres Glenn,
Senior Class President*

These are a few of our favorite things

Along with the piles of college catalogues and English research papers, 1,177 members of the 1984 Senior Class still found time for fun, friends, and the latest fads. During those times of relaxation students took advantage of local theatres and restaurants. Loews Theatre brought students popular flicks like "Terms of Endearment," "Footloose," and "The Big Chill." After the movies students gathered at Cheddars for combination nachos or Fast Fridays to chow down on fried cheese.

Popularized by the movie "Flashdance," torn fashions became popular. The look included oversized sweatshirts with haphazardly cutout necklines and exposed shoulders. From across the Pacific Ocean, colorful Oriental influences also drifted into teenage fashion.

Seniors enjoyed the convenience of Collin Creek Mall as a place to buy that new polo shirt or just to cruise the record stores for the latest Michael Jackson album. Novelty shops in the mall stocked up on the latest fads including gourmet popcorn in flavors of pina colada, strawberry, and jalapeno with cheese. Bubble gum came in new shapes and flavors. Bubble blowers enjoyed their gum in the shape of tacos, hamburgers, and even toothpaste tubes.

Besides keeping up with the current trends, much of the senior's school year was spent planning for the future. Career plans included attending vocational schools, local junior colleges and four-year universities. More than 70% of Plano's seniors planned to attend college after graduation. The University of Texas at Austin, A&M University, Texas Tech, Stephen F. Austin, and Baylor University ranked among the favorite Texas schools.

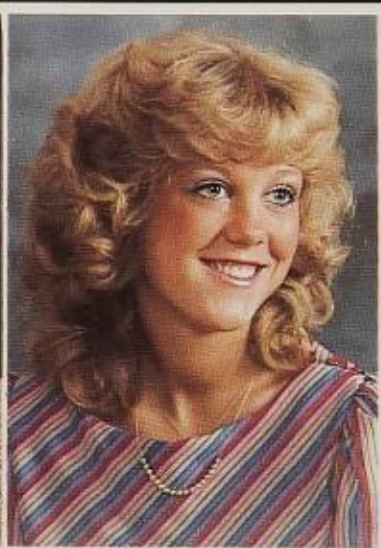

As a preview to the festivities of graduation, seniors took a last fling during March for Spring Break. Some students journeyed to the popular beaches of Padre Island while others took long planned trips to Europe. It was a good time to gather with classmates and friends one final time before high school days were over.

People from different cultures are not uncommon on campus, but one group of students whose cultures and lifestyles were different from most were the foreign exchange students. Eight students on the PSHS campus came from countries as far as Denmark and Spain.

A senior from Argentina, Veronica Martinez fits right into the school mainstream. An art student, Veronica was in Art Major Studies and played in the Theater Department's "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

"Speaking English has been the most difficult adjustment to make but it's fun and if you like people, they like you," said Veronica. "To become an exchange student was not easy. After studying applications, transcripts, and teacher recommendations, a home was selected for each student" said Guidance Director Johnnie Spies. "The student exchange program is helping not only the students but the school as well, broadening the dimensions of the school" said Ms. Spies.

Senior enjoys ballooning

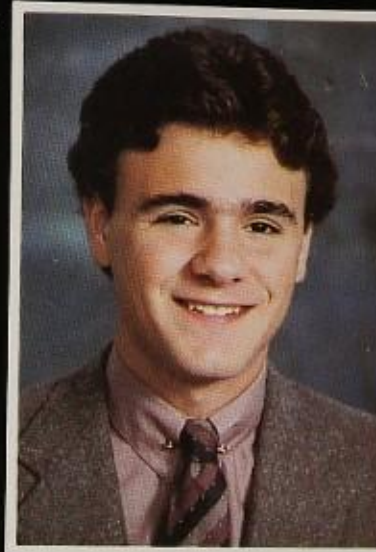

Hot air balloon enthusiast Kevin Kalbac has been piloting his own balloon with a student license since he was fourteen years old.

A senior, Kevin first became interested in hot air ballooning when he was just twelve years old.

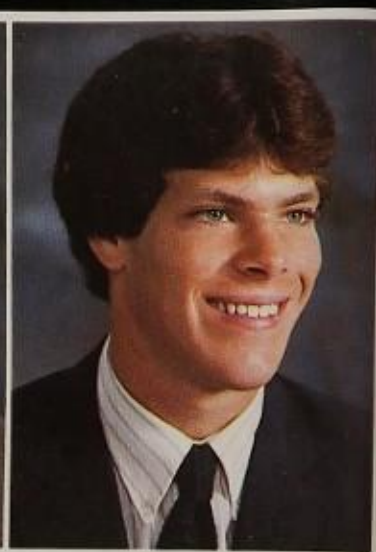

"When the balloons would fly over my house, I would chase them," Kevin recalled. Within a short period of time he met most of the area's balloon pilots. Randy Wright, owner of the "Realty World" balloon, decided to take Kevin on as a crew member. Over the next two years, Randy taught Kevin not only about balloon crewing, but piloting as well and, as a result, Kevin was able to get his student pilot license when he was fourteen. He participated in the annual Plano Balloon Festival since it began in 1979, and he attended the Albuquerque International Balloon Fiesta every year since 1980. Kevin even designed and helped to build his own 35-foot radio-controlled balloon which he uses for tethered promotional flights.

Following his high school graduation, Kevin plans to apply for his private balloon pilot's license.

Seniors show originality

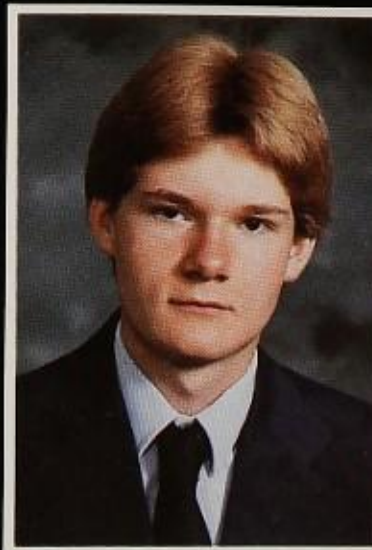

In a group display of spirit, the Wild Bunch poses as professional boxers during the Plano vs. PESH pep rally.

The band begins to play and the cheerleaders run on to the floor. It's the beginning of another Plano pep rally and what would it be without "The Wild Bunch?" Who can but laugh at a group of guys that dress up as drill team members, Hare Krishnas and sometimes outrageous characters.

"The Wild Bunch gives us an opportunity to support our football team in a humorous way," said member Kevin McManus.

The original Wild Bunch was a group of college students who got together at Longhorn games and cheered their team. Because of their crazy cheers and unpredictable antics, a sports writer dubbed them "The Wild Bunch." Doug Damewood, now a cheerleader sponsor at Vines, passed his memories of the original Wild Bunch on to the 1982 PSHS graduates who formed the first Plano Wildcat "Wild Bunch." Admired for their originality and enthusiasm, the Wild Bunch has become a part of Plano's tradition.

Senior sings country

Senior Marc Riggs, a country-western singer and guitarist, hopes to one day become successful in Nashville.

Country singer and guitarist, senior Marc Riggs' long history in music began in third grade when his uncle gave him a guitar. When he was in 7th grade, Marc took guitar lessons and started practicing with a few friends. These friendly sessions led to the beginning of a band, "Southern Pride." At first, the band had some problems, but gradually the band members changed, as did the sound. Money came easier and the band got better equipment.

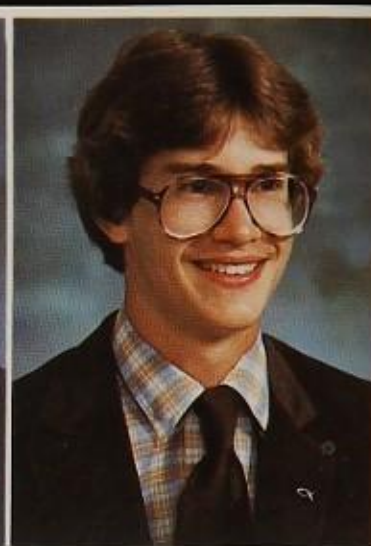

The group performed at many clubs and churches, but Marc's favorite performance was playing for the Manor House Nursing Home.

"It gives you a good feeling to play for people who really appreciate you," said Marc.

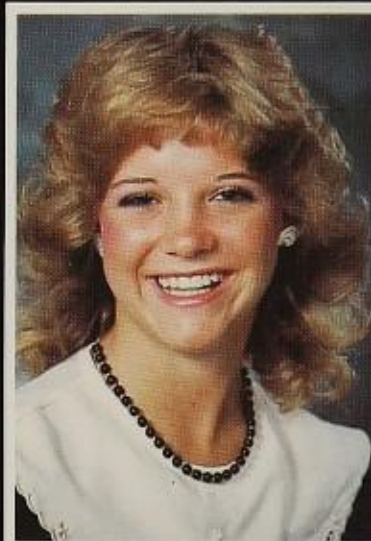

After four years, the band broke up, but Marc continued playing guitar and singing solo. Marc plans to play in Dallas and hopes someone influential in the music business will hear him sing and want to help forward his career.

Industry contributes to city's economic growth

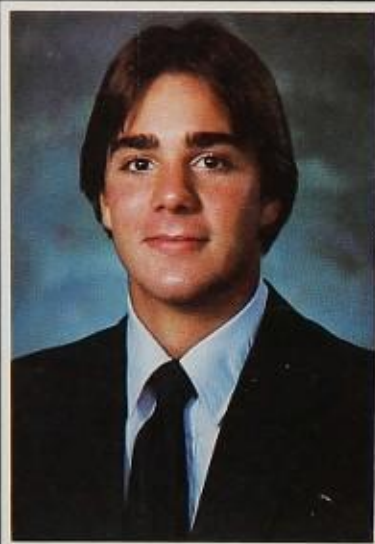

As the sun sets, the horizon reflects Plano's growth.

Twelve years ago, when the Seniors of 1984 started their school days, Plano was a town of only 19,000 residents. A busy downtown brick street from the early 1900's and fields dotted with a few shops were the city's attractions. Over the years many changes shaped Plano's future and caused Plano to grow from a small town north of Dallas to a large, affluent suburb. Businesses like American Airlines, Electronic Data Systems and Arco contributed to the economic growth of the city. Today, while the old brick street remains busy, the city now booms with more than 90,000 residents and a regional shopping center.

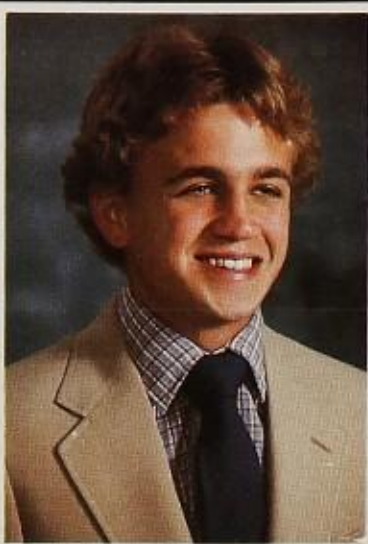

Plano ranks fourth in size in the Dallas-Fort Worth suburbs.

Until the middle of the 1970's Plano had only one high school. In response to the growing population, a new Plano Senior High was built in 1975. The former school became Williams High School. With growth continuing and overcrowding on the new campus, a second senior high school opened in 1981. While few of the seniors can boast of going to Plano schools for 12 years, it was the diversity of students and their backgrounds that strengthened the Plano schools. Despite their differences, students working together with spirit and dedication created the unifying factor that brought the members of this year's senior class together.

Ring around the juniors

Most parents of today's high school students graduated between 1950 and 1970. For them, choosing a class ring was usually a simple decision because only one style was offered. During the past decade, selecting a class ring has become painstaking and tedious. Selection requires careful thought and consideration. The first step in choosing a class ring is to consider the companies who make the rings and carefully examine their full-color brochures. The next step is to decide on the type of precious metal. A variety of metals are available including the traditional 10K yellow gold, white gold, Aurora, Siladium, and Lustrium. The type of metal that a class ring is made of usually determines the price range. Deciding on the design and style, the next step, is often the most tedious. Why? With almost one hundred styles and sides to choose from, narrowing down the best choices can take hours. The cut and color of the stone is the last decision. Will it be Garnet or Blue Zircon? Faceted top or India cut? After all the decisions of choosing a class ring, the next problem is coming up with the money to pay for it!

Electronic games gain in popularity

Playing video games has become the new way for teenagers to spend their free time.

Now, teens can walk into almost any mall and find an arcade with a whole new world of video games. Space battles, hidden treasure looks, and even the body guard of a rock band are just a few of the games offered in the world of electronics.

Our parents' generation had to be content with listening to the radio for entertainment. Our generation can explore new dimensions through video games and computers.

Open campus: a whole new world

Open campus — It was a whole new world for juniors. Those from Clark and Vines high schools were accustomed to a closed campus with a thirty-minute lunch period. Juniors enjoyed the open campus policy by going out to lunch at restaurants near the senior high. Students also took advantage of the one hour lunch break at a friend's house where mom's home cookin' was the star attraction. When homework needed to be done, students stayed on campus for lunch. Whether they stayed on campus or went out for lunch, juniors enjoyed the freedom of choice.

Communication: The name of the game

Communication seemed to be on the administrators' minds as they focus on better relationships between students, parents and the community. Principal Sherman Millender tried to find the best way to dispense information to the community and worked with his co-administrators on special programs.

The SWAT team (Students Working All Together), continued as a special project of Associate Principal Larry Guinn. He worked with the student group to help them better help their classmates. Curriculum Director Doyle Dean worked on academic excellence and helped teachers to prepare for the Southern Association of Secondary Schools evaluation.

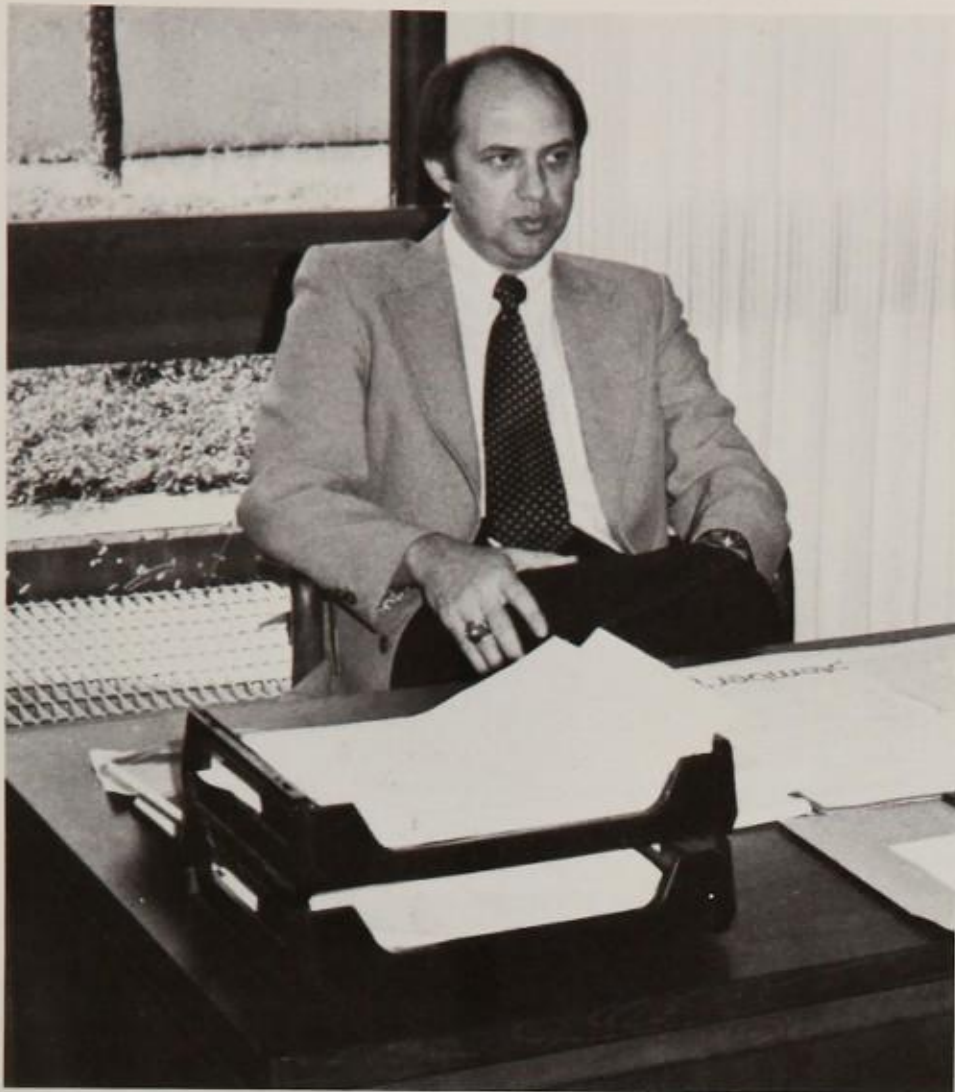

All three men were involved with the creation of the "A Team," an extra-curricular academics program.

Senior Kelly Dyson, Chairman for the National Smokeout, adopts Principal Sherman Millender for a day.

Associate Principal Larry Guinn introduces candidates for class officers at a junior assembly.

With the day's work accomplished, Associate Principal Larry Guinn relaxes during a rare moment.

In conference with a student, Principal Sherman Millender reviews a recent parent newsletter.

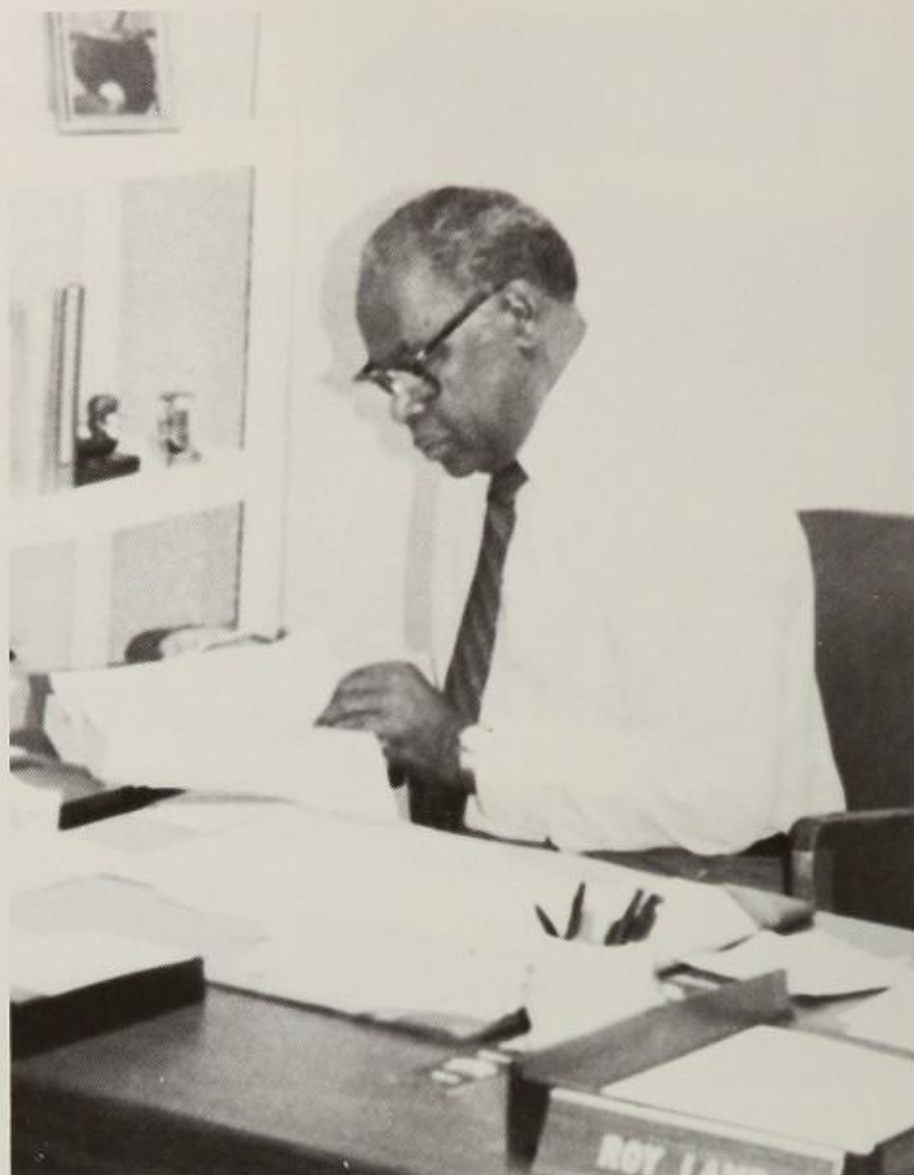

In his office, Curriculum Director Doyle Dean discusses scheduling with junior Christine Geiger.

Curriculum Director Doyle Dean looks over evaluation forms.

Checking second period attendance is a daily routine for Gamma Sub School Principal Vicki Reis.

Beta Sub School Principal Roy Lamb looks up a student's address.

In the fall, counselor Fredna Maulsby completes an enrollment list for students whose last names fall alphabetically between Me-Se.

Principals enhance students' daily life

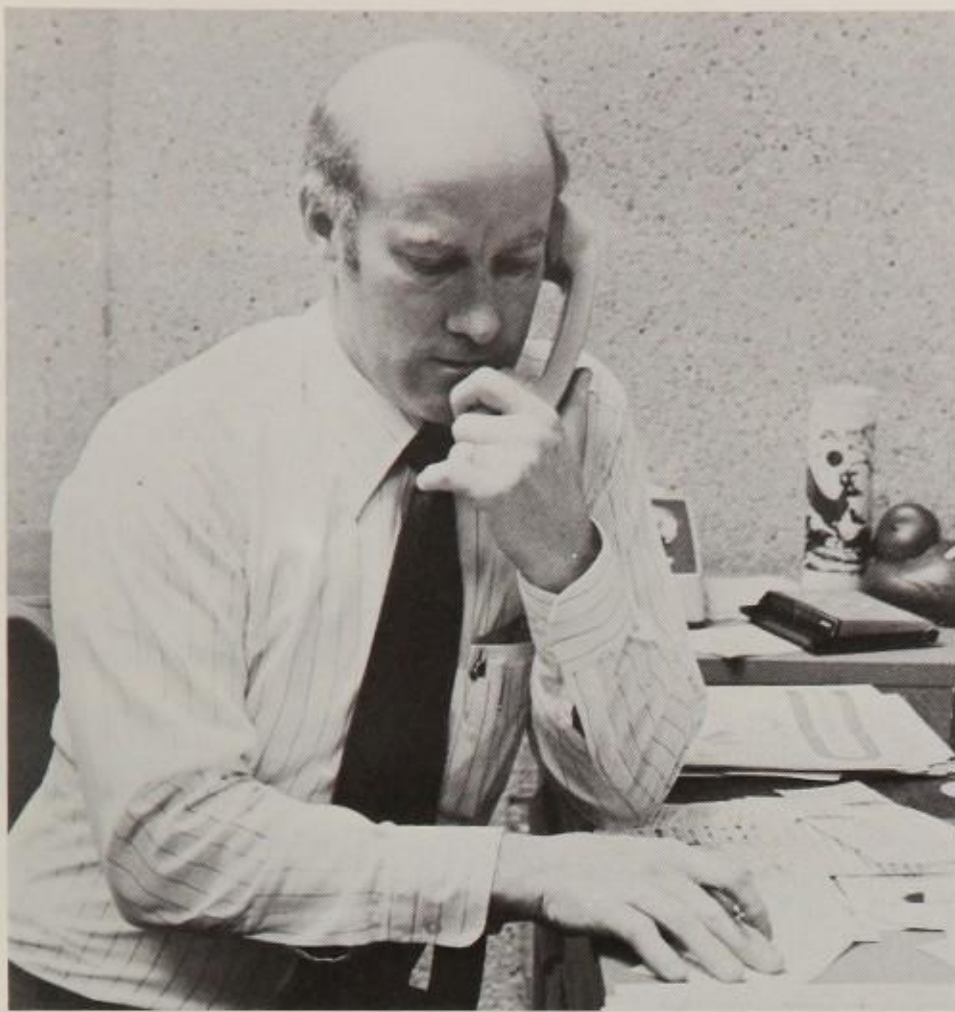

Like the other three sub school principals, one of Mr. Roy Lamb's main concerns was establishing consistency during the school year as he helped students fit into the mainstream of school life on a large campus.

"The year started smoothly with most students very eager. I enjoyed school as usual, like I have for so many years" said Mr. Lamb.

As principal of Alpha Sub School, one of Joe Wardell's interests was to make all the new juniors welcome.

"With the help of the student council, I got to know all the new students. "We really had an excellent group of students this year," said Mr. Wardell.

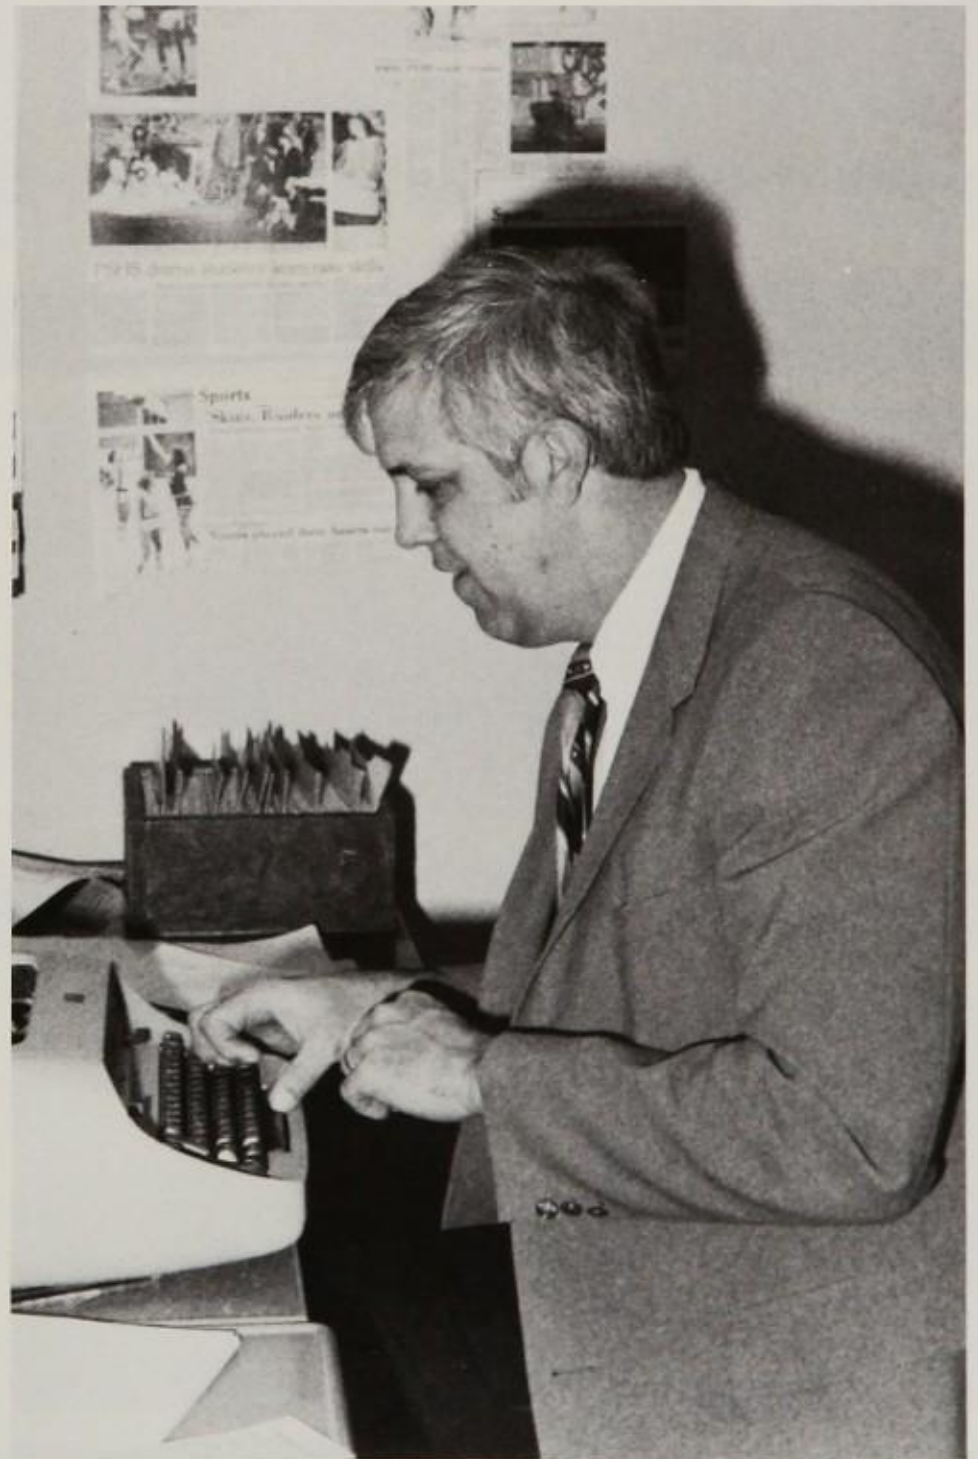

One of the five counselors, Fredna Maulsby concentrated on working with students and with the SWAT (students working all together) team.

When a student's absence is questionable, Delta Sub School Principal Mitch King contacts the parents.

As Chairman of National School and Guidance Counselor's Week, counselor Mike Watkins goes over some publicity releases.

Without a secretary for a week, Alpha Sub School Principal Joe Wardell takes on the responsibility of typing.

"Through Social Studies A-Team I was able to participate in foreign policy seminars, listen to political speakers, and strengthen my social studies knowledge," said senior Brad Weinreb.

Not only was Brad involved in A-Team, his interest in social studies enabled him to attend the Mock Convention and Close-Up Assembly in Washington D.C. Brad also participated in Mock Trial, National Honor Society, Student Council, Public Affairs Club, Key Club, and French Club.

BRAD WEINREB

KYLE JAMES

As a senior honor student, Kyle James actively involved himself in a variety of activities. He participated in band since sixth grade and won two UIL first place solo awards in ninth and eleventh grades and placed second in tenth.

Kyle plans to be a foreign language major in college due to his interest in French and Spanish. Awards relating to this interest included a third place in the National Spanish Contest and seventh in the National French Contest. In his senior year, Kyle participated in the Fête Française competition where he placed second in Instrumental Ensemble Contest, first in Dramatic Scene, and first in Grammar.

Throughout high school, Kyle was involved in a wide variety of clubs and organizations. He served as president of the French Club in twelfth grade after having been vice-president in eleventh grade. He was a four year member of Spanish Club. In his senior year, he was active in Computer Club, Key Club, Science Club, and was selected as a member of the Computer Science A-Team. Although his club activities kept him busy, Kyle managed to maintain an A average and keep his membership in honor society for four years.

WHO'S WHO/Outstanding Seniors Selected

SHERYL KRSEK

She was active in French Club, the Flag Corps, and National Honor Society. A four year honor student, Sheryl Krsek took first place titles for Solo and Ensemble competition during her three years as a sophomore, junior, and senior.

Sheryl's involvement in French Club earned her two second place competitive awards during her senior year.

KYLE KENNEDY

A spontaneous talent earned Kyle Kennedy the Samuel French Outstanding Best Actor Award as he won district, region, and area UIL One Act Play competition for his theatrical role in the school's production of "Strider" during his senior year.

In addition, Kyle was an active member of Student Council, National Honor Society, Key Club, Wildcat Men, Choir, and Thespians.

As a junior, Kyle was named a Sam Rayburn Scholar and as a senior was a Rotary Student of the Month.

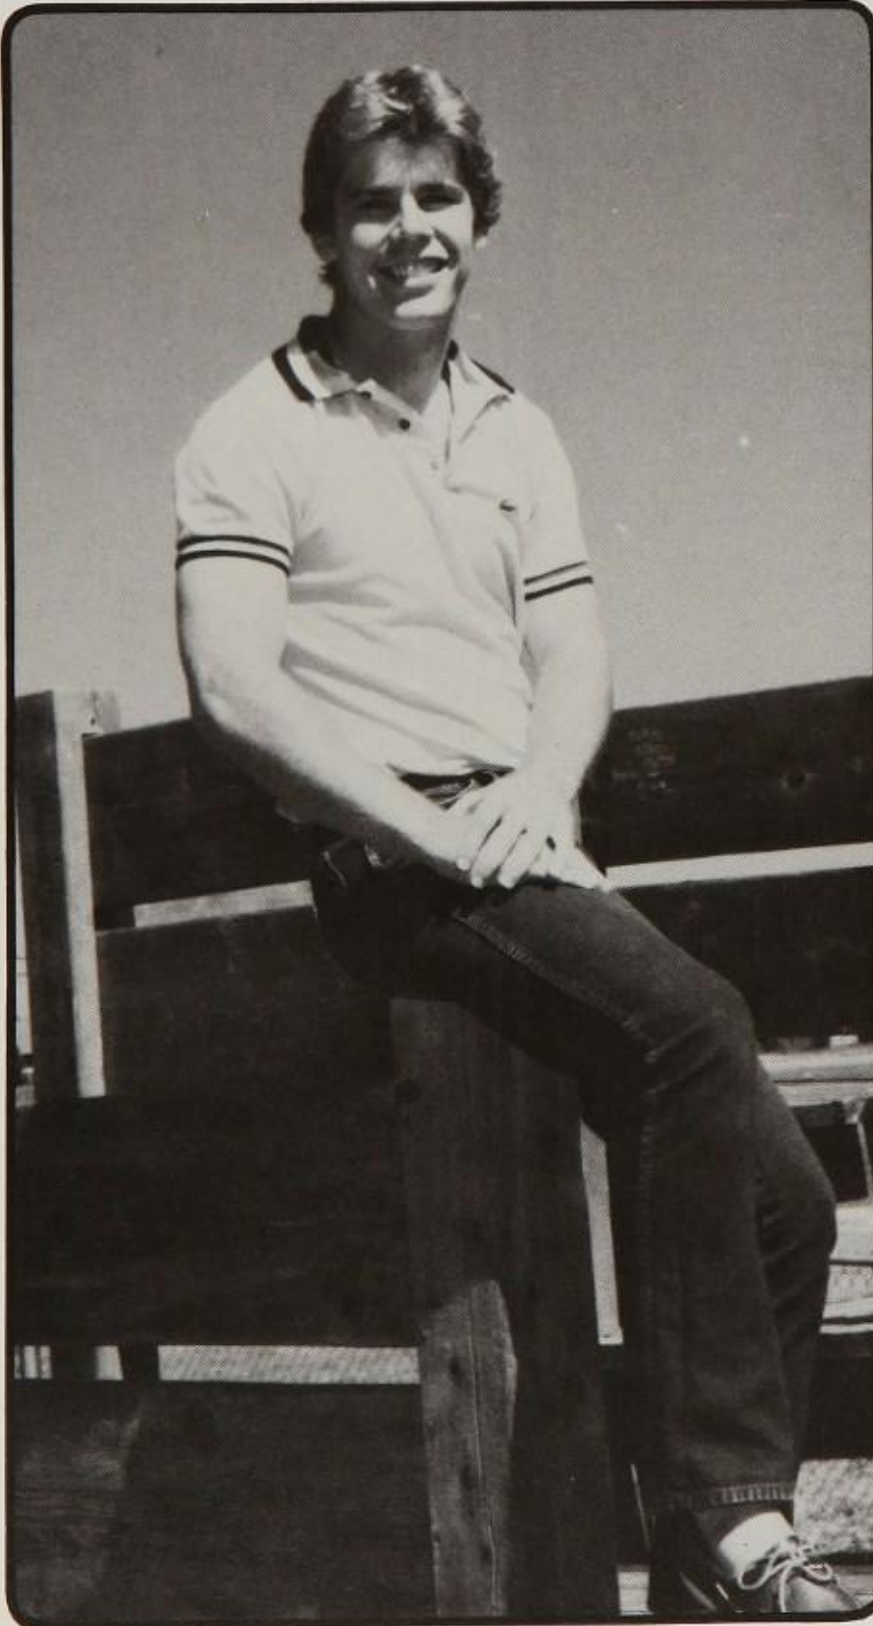

WHO'S WHO/Twelve Recognized

Voted by the senior class as most involved, Lisa Marie Anderson was elected to Student Council during four years of high school. She served as Student Council president as a sophomore and went on to become president of her junior class and as a senior, president of the Student Senate. Lisa was an active member of the organization SWAT (Students Working All Together). She was also a drill team manager in tenth and eleventh grades and became a Planoette as a senior. She found time to participate in the Plano Involvement Program and was part of the Human Relations Committee.

LISA ANDERSON

DAVID THOMPSON

Academically advanced, David Thompson was a member of the Mathematics A Team and was in AP English and Calculus as a senior. He served as a member of the Student Council for two years.

Throughout his four years in high school, David played football and baseball. In both his junior and senior years, he was named to the second team All-District in football. As a member of the baseball team, he made first team All-District and second team All-Metro in eleventh grade. David served as baseball team captain in his senior year.

Hours of practice on the violin earned orchestra student Benita Falls many music awards. Benita claimed first place titles at UIL competitions during all four years of high school and was also named to All-State Orchestra tenth through twelfth grades. She was a member of the master class in violin performance with nationally acclaimed violinist Nadja Silerno-Sonnenburg. Benita also received superior ratings in concert and sight reading at the Greater Southwest Music Contest and claimed first place in the Dallas Times Herald Symphonic Festival's Sonata Division.

In addition, Benita served as president of the school orchestra, was a member of Student Council, Science Club, and French Club. A four-year member of honor society, Benita was elected to the offices of secretary, vice-president, and president.

BENITA FALLS

JULIE SIMS

Moving from the slow-paced town of Bonham in her sophomore year, Julie Sims managed to adjust well to a large campus where she earned a 9.29 grade average. Julie, who kept her four year membership in honor society, had been a cheerleader, FFA Sweetheart, Student Council member, and class president before she moved to Plano. She continued her interest in student council at Plano and joined the Spanish Club and Key Club. She was elected Senior Class treasurer and was awarded an Austin College Trustee's Scholarship. She also wrote for the literary magazine and was selected for the English A Team.

CAROLINE SPEAR

Actively involved in French Club, Science Club, National Honor Society, and Whiz Quiz as a junior and senior, Caroline Ann Spear won a variety of competitive awards. In 1981, she won first place for French poetry reading. The following year, she won third place at Fête Française in French prose reading and sixth place in the biology merit exam at ETSU. She went on to win second place in the District UIL spelling competition and was selected as a National Merit Finalist in her senior year.

TREY DODSON

It seems that his active participation in athletic and community affairs would hamper his academic standing. However, throughout high school, Trey Dodson maintained an A average.

President of honor society in tenth and twelfth grades as well as Student Council vice-president, Trey remained active in Spanish Club, Society of Physics Students, Math Club, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and Wildcat Men. He was also selected for the Mathematics A Team.

Trey participated on the field and court as well, lettering in football four years, track three years, and basketball one year.

Among the awards credited to Tracy were the American Legion Military and Scholastic awards as a sophomore and junior and the Commander's Trophy as a junior.

Along with her involvement in ROTC, Tracy was a member of the National Honor Society and had a grade point average of 9.77. She was also a member of both the Math and French clubs.

TRACY MARTIN

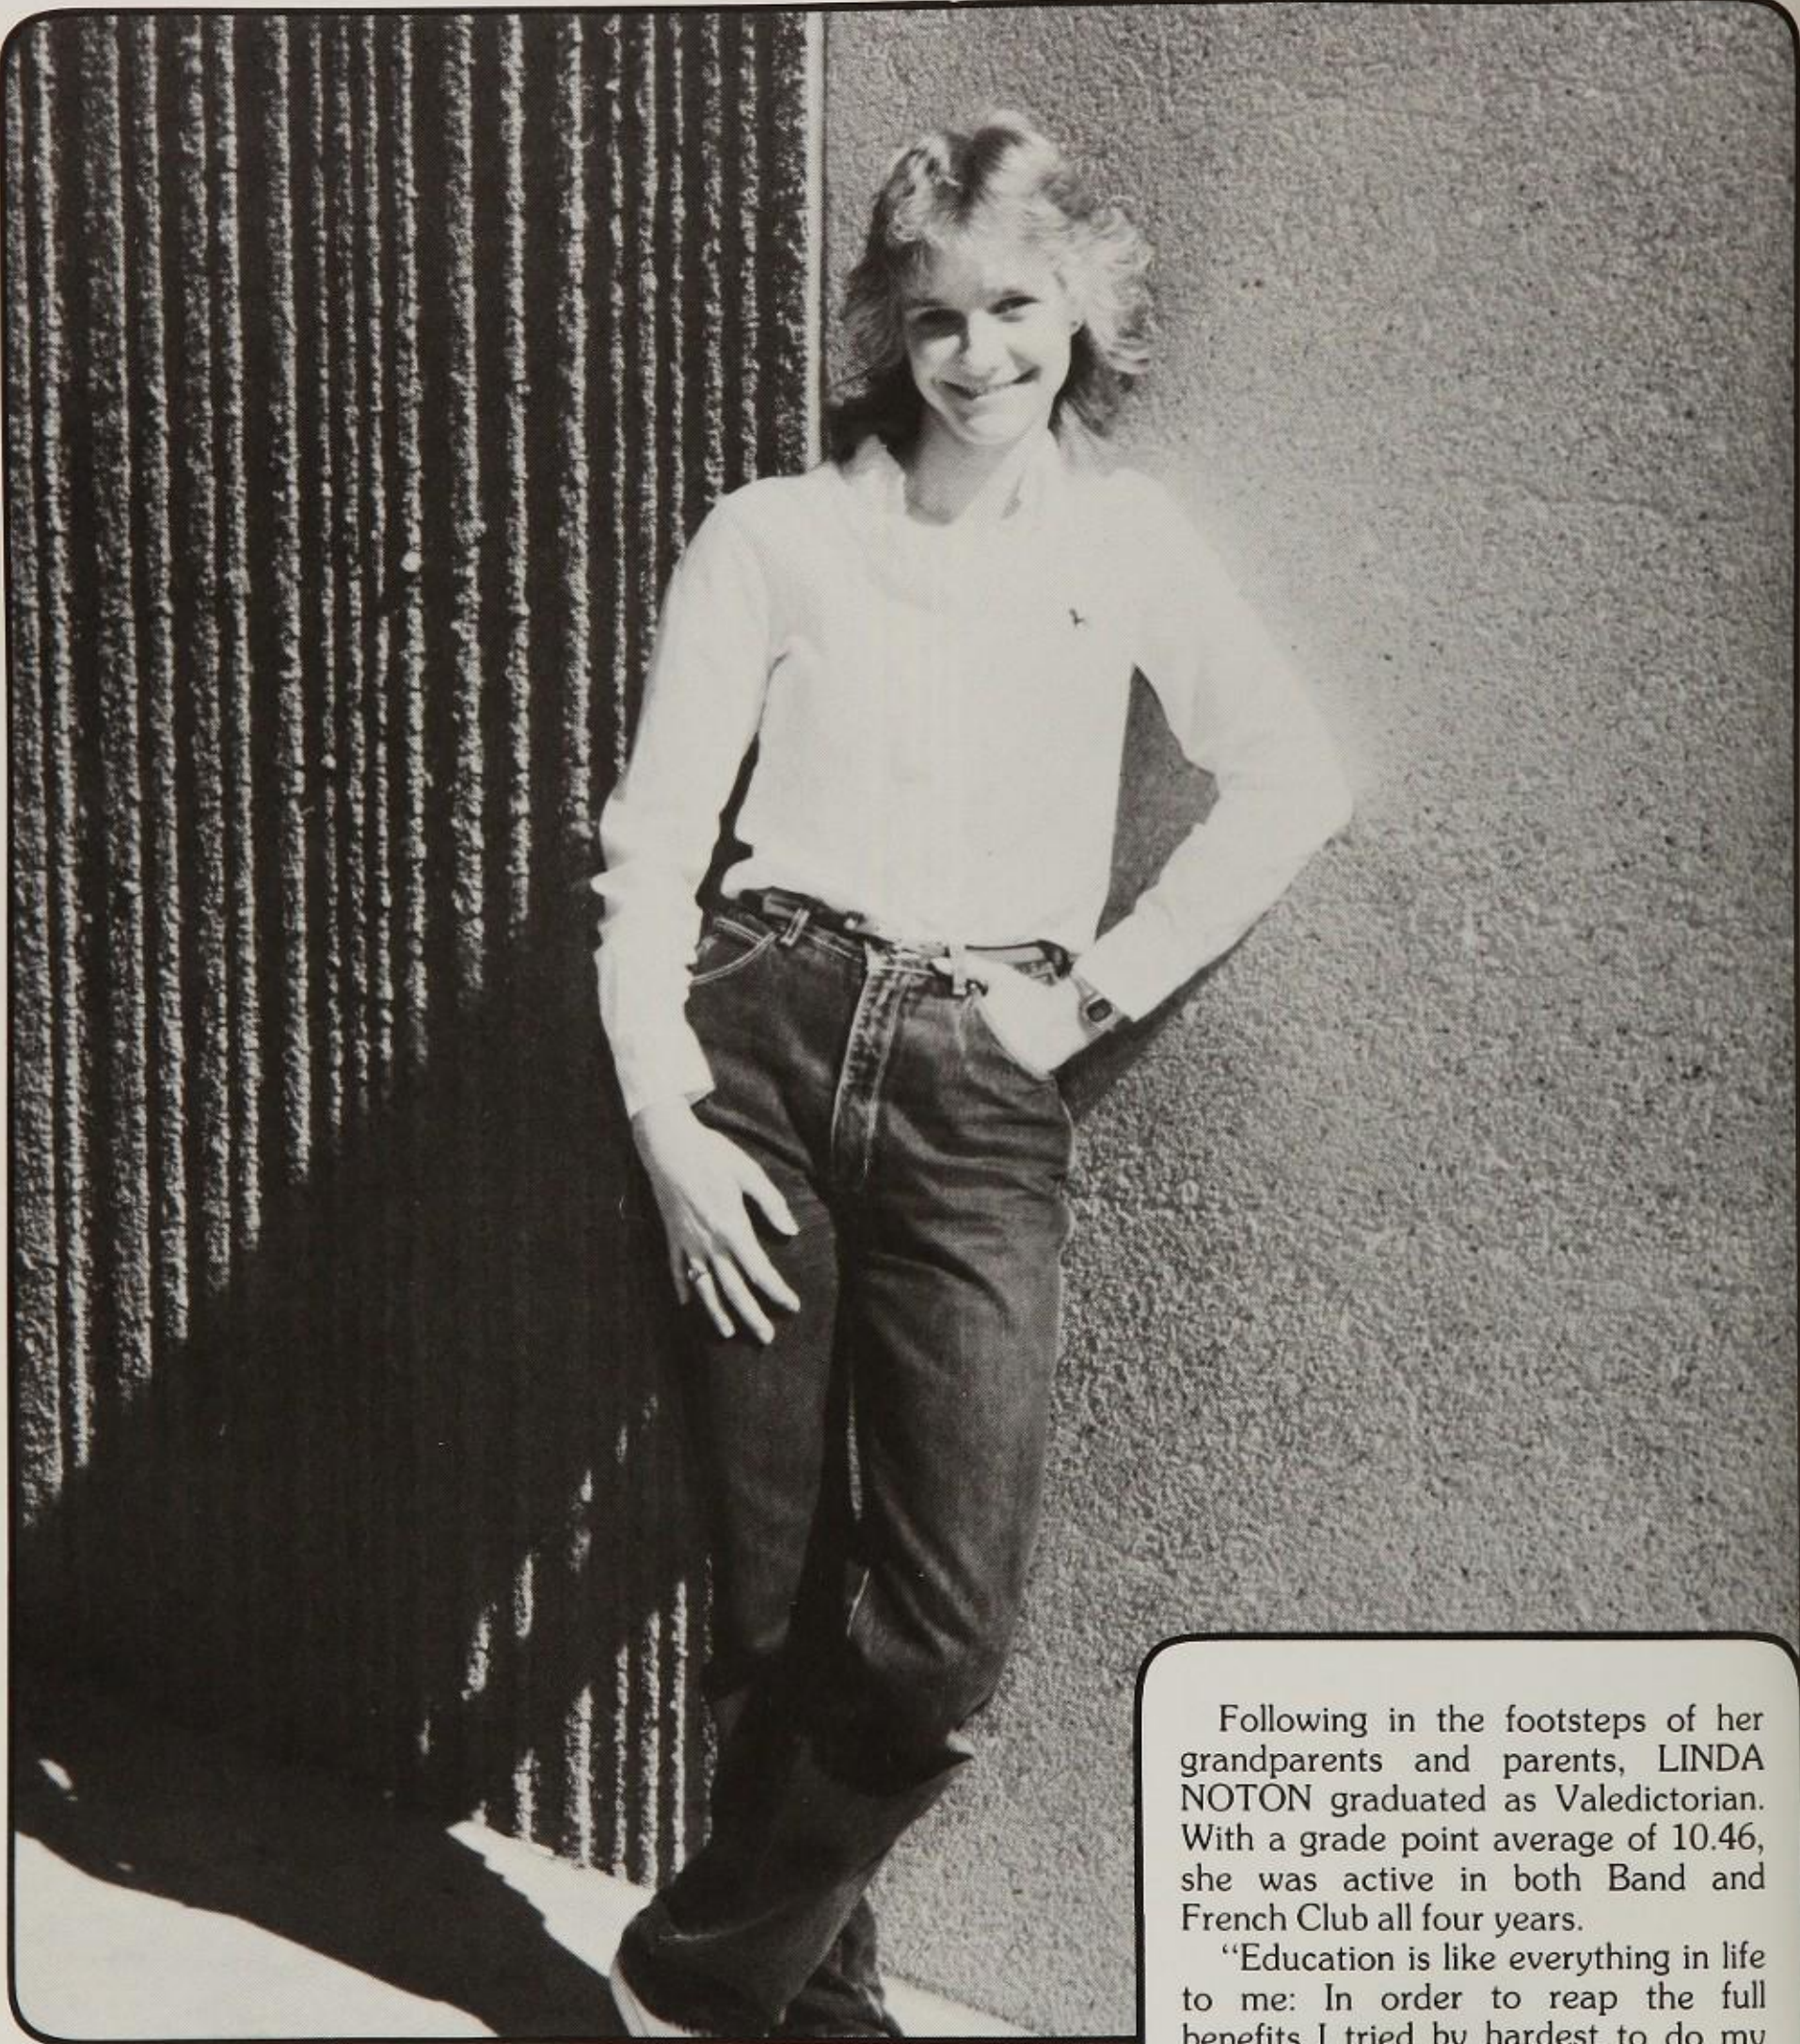

JERRY DURHAM

A natural group leader, Jerry Wayne Durham was a member of the student council for two years and a choir member all four years of high school. During tenth grade, he was a member of pop singers and during his senior year he was a member of Music Corporation and Wildcat Men. He was also involved in football and Fellowship of Christian Athletes as a sophomore. As a junior, he was a member of Latin Club, "Cindy Feller's" cast, and Close-Up Foundation.

During his senior year, he was involved in the Public Affairs Club, Mock Trial, Key Club, and was cast in "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers." He also participated in the Close-Up Mock Convention, Student Decision Making Seminar, MDA Superdance, and was a Rotary Student of the Month. Actively involved in the community, he was a American Cancer Society Laps for Lives participant in 1981, 1982, and 1983 and helped in Christmas food drives for needy families.

Linda Noton — Valedictorian

Following in the footsteps of her grandparents and parents, LINDA NOTON graduated as Valedictorian. With a grade point average of 10.46, she was active in both Band and French Club all four years.

"Education is like everything in life to me: In order to reap the full benefits I tried by hardest to do my best," said Linda. "There were no pressures on me to excel except those that I put on myself."

Earning a 10.29 grade point average, RUTH LIM graduated as Salutatorian. A National Merit Finalist, she participated in National Honor Society, and the French and Science clubs.

"Academics played an important part in my high school years. I did my best to keep my grades up," stated Ruth. "I pressured myself to excel, yet tried to relax from the pressure on isolated occasions."

A, B, C's of academics

Beginning in 1981, Texas passed reforms to upgrade school policies. Specific graduation requirements were called for along with stiffer attendance requirements.

With this, public education in general came under the scrutiny of the people. Programs were created to raise the standards of public education. Basics were reinforced at all grade levels with emphasis placed on subjects like English, mathematics, and science.

In 1983, Dallas electronics executive H. Ross Perot headed a state appointed committee to study the quality of education in Texas. Emphasis should be placed on strengthening basic skills and shortening time spent in extracurricular activities was a basic resolve of the committee.

With these trends toward reforming education, students became more aware of the importance of learning. Many high school seniors put in more hours of study and rescheduled their classes to include advanced and college preparatory courses. Further, colleges and universities require stricter entrance requirements spotlighting more credits in science, math, and foreign language.

Councils welcome new students

Meeting fourth period, Student Senate members not only guided many school activities but developed leadership skills and learned parliamentary procedure. Senate handled all elections and organized the halftime activities for homecoming which included the annual maroon and white balloon contest. Other fall activities included a sign contest for the PESH Panthers vs. the Wildcats football game and a teacher's appreciation breakfast. Senate members held a workshop for ninth and tenth grade students interested in taking part in student councils. In April, the members sold garters for the prom. Senate also provided a breakfast for the Southern Association Evaluation Committee and helped direct the visitors around the campus.

In the fall, Gamma Student Council held a newcomer's reception to welcome new students. A year-round welcoming committee was formed to help those who came new to Gamma Sub School. The members helped organize the school's annual blood drive in February. Gamma Council members organized a service project and Spring Fling activities.

Alpha Student Council worked on decorations for the homecoming dance in the fall. At Christmas, for a fund-raising project, members provided an opportunity for students to get their pictures taken with Santa Claus. Alpha Council held bake sales to raise money to buy a wheelchair for the clinic. Alpha members also participated in Spring Fling.

Club knows people are what matters

People — That's what it was all about for members of People to People. Meeting new people and making new friends were the main goals of the newly created organization. Formerly a newcomers club, the group was formed for new students at school. The name was later changed to People to People and was organized for anyone interested in — you got it — people. Together with sponsor Cindy Pierson, members met and discussed people and their behavior. The club was also designed for students interested in psychology.

Delta Student Council co-sponsored the Homecoming Dance and the Newcomers reception. Fund-raising activities included a car wash and candy sales. The money from these activities was used to purchase toys for needy children at Christmas and to donate to the Plano Crisis Center. In April, Delta Student Council members organized the "Senior Presentation," an evening of special senior entertainment.

Beta Student Council also helped with the homecoming activities. Members sponsored a successful canned food drive at Christmas. Their main activity was to take part in the establishment of the Plano Crisis Center. Both student councils participated in Spring Fling by setting up special feature booths.

"The goal of Beta Student Council," said faculty sponsor Roy Lamb, "was to be an organized, vibrant part of campus life."

Cheerleaders promote campus teams

Cheerleader Cathi McGovern leads the seniors in "Maroon and White Fight"

Promoting the 14 athletic teams on campus was a full time extracurricular activity for the cheerleaders.

The 10 member squad attended SMU's summer cheerleading camp where the group won the spirit megaphone and took home the spirit stick. In addition, the cheerleaders were chosen to compete for the award of excellence, an honor given to only five teams.

Back at school, the squad got in lots of practice during the regular varsity football season in preparation for the playoffs.

With the guidance of new sponsor Candy Vardell, the cheerleaders spearheaded the pep rallies and spent time decorating the lockers of the football players.

Active clubs explore new ideas

Publishing a Wildcat Men Calendar, establishing a Newcomers Club and Adopt-a-Grandparent were just a few of the imaginative ideas conjured up by two active clubs on campus —

SWAT and Key Club.

Key Club, or Kiwanis Educating Youth, raised money for MDA and the March of Dimes. Key Clubbers continued traditional activities like work ing at Haunted houses and sponsoring the MDA Superdance. As a fundraiser, Key Club members sold a "Wildcat Men Calendar" which pictured twelve of the best-looking senior boys. Another new project, Adopt-a-Grandparent, began during Key Club week. Members "adopted" a grandparent from a Plano nursing home and visited them once a week.

"This was a good year for Key Club. With members giving ideas for projects, there was always something to do!" said president Tracy Traveland.

Members of the SWAT team, or Students Working All Together, made the school a warmer and friendlier place for both learning and social growth. SWAT team members were selected so that the group was diverse and represented many aspects of school life. If parents, teachers or students noticed a particular student was having trouble they could inform the SWAT team. They would then set the student up with the appropriate person, either a SWAT team member or a counselor. SWAT also helped create Newcomers' Club, initiated the student buddy system, and created BIONIC (Believe It Or Not I Care).

Clowns, frogs add pizzazz

Hours of work became evident as the Planoettes danced onto the field during halftime at the football games and onto the gym floor for Friday morning pep rallies. Thirty-seven children between the ages of five and seven dressed up as clowns to join the drill team in a special performance.

The girls attended a camp during the summer to get better acquainted with the new juniors and to learn new routines. At the camp in Kilgore, they received sweepstakes which included a first division in kick, jazz and novelty. They were also awarded the spirit stick for the third consecutive year.

Following the football playoffs, the Planoettes began working on their spring show, Pizzazz. "A Year to Remember" served as the theme. Plano police officer Tim Quintana showed his support of the Planoettes by performing in one of the routines.

Maroon and white fight

Cheers resounded from the gym floor every Friday during fall pep rallies. Enthusiasm of the JV cheerleaders had the juniors yelling "Maroon" as loud as they could to compete with the seniors yell of "White." The junior varsity cheerleaders had a very busy year which began at the S.M.U. cheerleader camp. The team won five blue ribbons and took home a week-long spirit award with the help of the varsity squad. The 10 girls promoted school spirit by their support at the pep rallies with their routines and skits. In the fall, they spent their Thursday nights cheering at the JV football games. The cheerleaders also sold pompons to wave during the games. They cheered at both girls and boys soccer and basketball games.

"The squad was spirited, organized and talented. Even though the girls had a unique mixture of personalities, they were unified in spirit," said sponsor Marci Roe.

Campus clubs dedicated to helping, learning

"The students who were active in National Honor Society were among the busiest in school. Trying to remain active in all of their organizations and still maintain their good grade averages was their most difficult task," said NHS sponsor Sandy Rutter.

Even with their busy schedules, club members participated in TRAC day by volunteering to help mentally retarded children. NHS students won the Super Dance sign contest in February and also donated money to help the Key Club sponsor the dance. By working in concession stands, members earned enough money to donate a video recorder to the English Department. In April, NHS held its induction ceremony for new members.

Public Affairs Club members collected books, games, and magazines and donated them to the New Juvenile Detention Center in McKinney. They also attended the dedication of the center and got to meet Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. Some members competed in the district mock trial competition. Still others interned with lawyers, judges, or police officers.

"The members of this club were interested in the political system and learned about public offices through actual work experience," said sponsor Milton Hammond.

Whiz Quiz members spent many afternoons practicing for competition. They scrimmaged students in other schools and the members of the faculty here. Competitions were taped weekly and shown on cable television. With the guidance of sponsor Beth Stewart the 10 team members worked toward strengthening the school's scholastic image with hard work and dedication to learning.

Spanish, Latin clubs celebrate culture

Getting to know each other was a basic aim as members of Spanish Club began the year with an initiation party. Members also socialized at Christmas time, as they held a dinner party and exchanged gifts.

Spanish Club's major fundraising project was selling carnations for valentines. Students picked carnations from a variety of colors and the club members delivered them to friends on Valentine's Day.

At the annual Spring Fling, the group sang traditional Spanish songs and demonstrated Spanish folk dances. Members got together again as they attended an end-of-the-year party which was catered by a local Mexican food restaurant.

Latin Club members shared their time with others by visiting local nursing homes throughout the year to play bingo and befriend the elderly. During the fall, Latin Club members worked the concession stands at the football games to raise money for group functions. For Spring Fling, they sponsored a cold drink stand. Their banquet in May was held at the Harvey House.

Culture clubs speak out

Emphasizing a better understanding of French culture and language, members of the French Club held many activities. In the fall, members earned money by working football game concession stands. At Christmas time, the group held a French caroling party after entertaining in Plano neighborhoods. Meetings were held at members' homes, including a meeting to celebrate the Fete des Rois, The Festival of Kings, in January. To better understand the preparation of French foods, the group had both a French breakfast and a banquet in the spring.

German Club celebrated the beginning of a busy year with an Oktoberfest. Seventeen students qualified for state competition in German at the Novemberfest regional competition. The German Club sponsored a Christmas caroling party in December.

Thirty-five members traveled to San Marcos for the Sprachfest competition in February. Eight German students qualified for state competition in areas such as reading comprehension, prose memory, and speaking. Members also brought back trophies from a scavenger hunt and from a vocal ensemble. In April, members competed at the state German competition and in May, the group sold pretzels at the annual Spring Fling.

Yearbook editor Lori Penszky selects slides to be used for the opening section

Words capture high school memories

Headlines, cutlines, and more lines were written throughout the day in the journalism room occupied by newspaper and yearbook students. Led by editor Stephanie Young, Journalism Major Studies students produced 14 issues of the Wildcat Tales newspaper. In September, the newspaper staff received a Texas Honor Rating from the Texas High School Press Association. In addition to working on Wildcat Tales, many students contributed to the local editions of Plano Profile and Plano Review. Journalism students entered articles in district UIL competitions in the spring.

"Images of the 80's was decided on as the theme for the 43rd Volume of the Planonian yearbook since we felt our school was innovative and one that stayed aware of the changes in today's education," said editor Lori Penszky. In the fall, yearbook sales proved to be the biggest yearbook sale ever, with more than 1200 books sold in a 3-day period.

"Although there was a lot of responsibility involved, completing the book made the hard work worth the effort," said Lori.

In December, a group of Planonian staff members attended the Texas High School Press Association workshop where students learned new graphic art techniques.

The fifth edition of the literary magazine, "Espirit," was compiled by first year journalism students in the spring. Journalism I students also put their newly acquired skills to work by publishing an issue of the Wildcat Tales in May.

Choirs harmonize to variety of songs

Songs of gladness, songs of sadness, songs that excited and those that told a story were heard on the lips of choir students as Chorale and Concert Choir combined talents for a Christmas concert entitled, "Gloria" by Vivaldi. Members of both choirs also performed in the Theatre Department's production of "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

Music Corporation performed for a variety of area functions and civic groups. The 16 member group performed at the Mary Kay Convention in August and displayed their talents in a spring show at the school's theatre in May. A highlight of the year was the production of an album. Entitled, "Three A.M." the album was a composite of jazz, country-western, Broadway, gospel, and pop songs. Music Corporation was the first high school choir in the nation to be involved in such a program.

A strictly volunteer choir, Wildcat Men, entertained students twice during lunch and was involved along with a similar men's group in Plano in a barber shop chorus production.

All choirs, except Wildcat Men, performed at the "Musical Christmas Extravaganza" in December at Marshall Fields. The three choirs participated in a contest in April and toured to the Opryland Music Festival in Tennessee.

"The growth of the choirs musically as well as personally was outstanding. Students not only exhibited fine talent, but fine attitudes," said choir sponsor Steve Garms.

Band Steps With the Beat

Traditionally one of the largest groups on campus, the band organized in the summer when members began marching practice. Their halftime performances at the Wildcat football games and pep rallies were regular fall events. Band had the added honor this year of representing Plano Senior High School at the Baylor vs. Texas Tech game by invitation of Baylor University.

As fund raisers, band sponsored the U.S. Air Force Band in concert and sold magazine subscriptions. The Air Force Band performance brought a standing-room only crowd as more than 3,400 people attended the evening performance.

Following another fund-raising concert in January, band members began working toward spring competitions. Two members were selected for the Texas All-State Band. In the UIL Solo and Ensemble contests held at North Garland High School and the second annual Plano Solo and Ensemble Contest at PSHS, students won awards in flute, tuba, clarinet, trumpet, sax, and timpani competitions.

In October and November, marching contests earned the band a superior rating in both UIL and HEB competitions.

Band members attended the Bucaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi and ended the year with sponsorship of a Doc Severinson concert and a banquet held for the combined bands in May.

Rehearsals

pay off

Together with Orchestra students from the feeder schools, members of Orchestra participated in a fall concert. The musicians then began rehearsing for the Theater Department's production of "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

During the holiday season, Orchestra joined with Choir to perform a Christmas concert of Vivaldi's "Gloria."

The UIL Solo and Ensemble contest was held in February at North Mesquite High School at which both orchestra ensembles received a rating of I. Also in February, Benita and Michele traveled to Fort Worth to participate in the All-State Orchestra Concert. The Orchestra trip to Amarillo in April for the Greater Southwest Music Festival brought them 1's in concert and in sight-reading.

The newest musical group on campus, Music Theory Club was organized in the fall. Members began with a fund-raising bake sale. Students interested in learning fundamentals of reading and writing music — while also learning to sing and play the piano — participated in after school meetings. The club members collected food for the canned food drive and held an end-of-the-year banquet.

Playing for the enjoyment of lunchroom crowds, the Stage Band began a regular series of concerts. They also played at the Homeowner's Association Banquet at the Harvey House Hotel. After holding a spring concert, the Stage Band played at Spring Fling. They also played at the Marching Band's enchilada supper and at the Vines Band's spaghetti supper.

The fine art of competing: winning

"Come Back Little Sheba" which was performed in the lecture hall in September was the opening production of the year for the Theatre Department. In October, the Theatre and Choir departments held auditions and started rehearsals for the musical "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers." Portraying the oldest brother was senior James Tindel and playing his wife was classmate Jill Brennan. Next, the Thespians began work on U.I.L. one act play "Strider." A very challenging production, "Strider" won second place in the state U.I.L. competition with senior Kyle Kennedy receiving a scholarship for his performance.

"It's been an outstanding year for theatre students" said sponsor John Steele.

Members of the National Forensic League spent much of their time preparing speeches for oratories, gathering evidence for debates, and practicing for dramatic or humorous interpretation. The team traveled as far away as Amarillo to compete in high school speech tournaments. In December, the team sponsored their own tournament. Members brought home trophies and the team won Sweepstakes several times during the year. Members qualified for state competitions and three students, David Hugin, Denise Urzendowski, and Animesh Agarwal, went to national competition.

Artists share talents

Arterama members shared their talents with others by designing chili posters for Rotary Club and painting signs for football games. Members also sold candy bars to raise money for a showcase to display their art.

In the spring, Arterama members toured the area art museums and enjoyed the beach at Galveston.

Another group with artistic talents, Commercial Art, a VICA organization, designed and painted the Wildcat emblem in the gym. Members also created a teddy bear mural on the walls of the Child Development class room. Commercial Art VICA members designed lay-outs and improved their silk screening techniques to qualify for vocational competitions in March and April.

"This group really enjoyed helping other organizations on campus. The students made posters for the play and for the senior presentation. They also designed t-shirts for the student councils and the blood drive," said sponsor Bud Norton.

Under the command of cadet Lt. Colonel Tracy Martin, the ROTC battalion became a distinguished unit. The sense of responsibility the cadets gained from leadership projects paid off at the Annual Formal Inspection.

ROTC students spent many hours preparing their ROTC units for skill competitions held throughout the southwest. The men's and women's drill teams, the orienteering team, and the rifle team participated in meets. To highlight the year, ROTC held a military ball at which senior Landa Arnold was named sweetheart.

FFA's on the grow

One of the largest and most active organizations on campus, Future Farmers of America, took part in a wide variety of activities. Besides raising animals and growing plants, members held fund raisers. They sold sausage and cleaned the area at Clark Field after they worked in football concession stands.

Activities for FFA members began with students buying their projects for the Collin County Junior Livestock Show. Members were judged on their ability to judge animals at the Area Judging Contest at ETSU in Farmersville. Senior Jeff Griffin won Reserve Grand Champion for his prize steer at the Trenton Livestock Show. Students also showed their animals well at the State Fair and at the Wylie International Livestock Show. They attended the district Leadership Contest in McKinney and won the sweepstakes award at the Area Leadership Contest in Commerce.

For Christmas projects, members sold poinsettias, contributed to the canned food drive and donated a Christmas tree to a Plano family. Junior Hal Huber sold his steer at the Fort Worth Stock Show and celebrated with other top FFA sellers at a banquet held at the school. Members also attended the Frisco Livestock Show. They competed in the Area Judging Contest and attended the Area V FFA Convention which was held in Lewisville.

Officer Liz Harwell attended the Chapter Officer Training Camp at Lake Texoma and joined others at the State FFA convention in Lubbock.

Clubs plan labs, rallies

Students in Cosmetology VICA met for three hours a day to learn and practice new skills. In February they entered the District VICA contest and set up a vocational showcase at the mall. Some of their fund-raising activities included candy sales in November and a bake sale later in the year. Cosmetology students also held two Saturday labs to earn money to go to Austin to get their licenses from the State Board in May.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes started the year with a Splash Bash in August. FCA groups from different schools met at White Water for a rally and summer fun. In the fall FCA members met at the Cotton Bowl for a rally and then stayed to watch a Texas Tech game. They also attended a Mavericks game together. The group met twice a month to listen to guest speakers.

Math skills sharpened in competitions

Math Club members made a habit of showing off their academic prowess at contests like their overnight trip to the state meet in San Antonio. Members also sharpened their skills at contests in Denton, Azle, Irving, Boswell, Grand Prairie, and Richardson. Math Club president Bill Fairbrother won eight first place awards himself. Other members placed well in the area contests.

Students in the Computer Club spent most of their free time in the Math Department working on special programs. Members listened to a guest speaker, visited the American Airline Flight Simulator, the ARCO Computer Center, and the Apple Computer Lab. Computer Club hosted a computer programming contest in which 20 high schools competed. A software library was maintained by the club for the school staff and club members' use. Members concluded the year by selling arcade games at Spring Fling. Students from both clubs worked hard to keep up their high academic averages.

Students help clean island beaches

Following a Hurricane in October, Science Club members traveled to Galveston to aid in the clean up on the beaches. They spent the weekend helping park authorities clean the debris left by Hurricane Alicia.

An educational activity which the Physics Club participated in was the North Texas State University Physics

Olympics which was held in the spring.

Plano fielded two teams with eight members each who competed against other Texas High Schools. The projects entered included a bridge made of balsa wood which weighed less than 500 grams and a car which was propelled by a mouse trap.

With emphasis on outdoor activities members of Woods and Water Club gained an appreciation of the environment through their school sponsored organization.

Activities which filled the group's agenda included a fishing trip, canoeing down the Guadalupe River, also a spring break filled with skiing in Purgatory, Colorado.

Active clubs show talents

Students involved in FHA Child Development were able to work with young children in a variety of ways including teaching pre-schoolers in the Early Learning Center and aiding professional teachers at local elementary schools. FHAer's put together a slide show of CDMS for the middle school career program. Members also participated in Youth Against Cancer and the Nov. 17 Great American Smokeout Day. Outstanding senior students in the program were awarded scholarships in May.

Members of the FHA Fashion Design program attended fashion shows throughout the metroplex including the North Texas State University Fashion Show, Gentleman's Quarterly Show at Sakowitz and Henri Grethel's Show at Tangos. Field trips included the opening of the Neiman Marcus Fortnight and a trip to the Prophecy Manufacturing Company. In December, the young designers put their skills to work designing doll's clothes to donate to Operation PUSH. For the year's finale, FHA had a fashion show titled, "All the Right Pieces" to exhibit the group's spring line.

In December, FHA students sponsored a canned food drive to supply Plano's needy with food during the Christmas holidays.

In the spring, members attended high tea at the Plaza of the Americas to learn about British customs. To end of the year, FHA held a banquet where outstanding members received awards.

Clubs Offer Career Opportunities

Hands on training and experience in the career world were two of the main objectives of the Health Occupations Students of America. HOSA was one of 200 chapters in Texas in which students were given the opportunity to work at health related jobs, like Plano General Hospital and local clinics and nursing homes.

Members attended field trips to the University of Texas School of Allied Health Sciences and the Baylor College of Dentistry. During the area conference, HOSA demonstrated their leadership and occupational skills while taking part in workshops.

Service oriented, members of Future Teachers of America raised money to aid other individuals and groups. During American Education week, FTA honored the faculty with a pancake breakfast. FTA members also received teaching skill in the classroom. Students gained job experience at local elementary and middle schools.

In February, FTA members attended the District X Convention and Leadership conference in Austin. Senior Jon LaMendola placed first in the Mr. FTA speech contest and for his effort, he received a thousand dollar scholarship.

"FTA can offer students leadership potential in many areas," said sponsor Linda Whitehurst.

In February, FTA secretary Terri Marini put valentines in the teachers' boxes.

OEA promotes skills

With speakers from General Telephone, Raytheon, and Data Systems, members of the Office Education Association extended their classroom experience. New word processing equipment was shown by some of the guests.

Along with other vocational groups, OEA participated in an exhibit at the Collin Creek Mall where members set up computers to allow shoppers to practice their typing skills. In turn, OEA computed the words typed per minute. It was a good time for OEA to demonstrate some of their special skills. Skill was also apparent as four of the twelve students who placed in district competition advanced to state in the categories of Typing, Records Management, Accounting II, and Job Interview I.

As a service project, the group made Halloween bags for Child Development children. The bags were filled with special treats and coloring books which members made in the classroom. As a service, and to show their appreciation of the teaching staff, OEA members prepared and served an informal luncheon in November. Toward the end of the school year, an employee-employer banquet was held in which senior members honored their employers.

In a transition between sponsors, Future Business Leaders of America formed in time to have eight students place in district competition. Three firsts were taken in district Typing II, Accounting II and Business English II. Members sold candy as a fundraiser and held an end-of-the-year banquet where they honored their winners from state competition.

Vocational students value business

Although Distributive Education Clubs of America centered around students who wanted to combine school with work, members found time to socialize and compete with other area chapters. Twenty-five of the seventy members attended the DECA Christmas breakfast in December. In February, DECA representatives attended an Area Career Development Conference in Dallas. This was followed in March by a DECA State Career Development Conference in San Antonio in which three DECA students participated. The highlight of the year for members was the DECA National Conference, held at the close of school in Kansas City.

"These activities helped to further develop education in marketing and distribution education and contributed to occupational competence," said DECA sponsor Charles Warren.

Concerned with the study of entrepreneurship, the 25 members of Industrial Cooperative Training learned how to start their own businesses. Along with other vocational programs, ICT developed a display for the Collin Creek Mall exhibit. The ICT display was a detailed account of the skills developed in their particular program.

The group attended a Leadership Conference at PSHS, with more than 60 vocational members present from throughout the district.

In area competitions, members brought home awards in graphic communications, extemporaneous speech, and business procedure.

Two social functions ended the year with students attending a dinner at the Harvey House in April, and picnic with their families in May.

VICA develops skills

Industrial Electronics VICA members attempted to talk to the space shuttle through their project radio. Students heard the astronauts, but power was not sufficient to actually communicate.

At Area Competition, members took a first, second, and fifth place. Qualifying for the State VICA Contest in Houston were students Paul Florian in Technical Information and Purna Murthy in Extemporaneous Speaking. In April, members took a field trip to the Channel 8 Communication Center and KZEW radio station.

Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas sent 14 students to a Leadership Conference in October. Members who placed in conference competition qualified for the Area Contest where they competed in leadership and skills competitions. The seven members who were successful at this conference traveled to San Antonio for State Contest. As the year drew to a close, VOCT members held an Employer/Employee banquet.

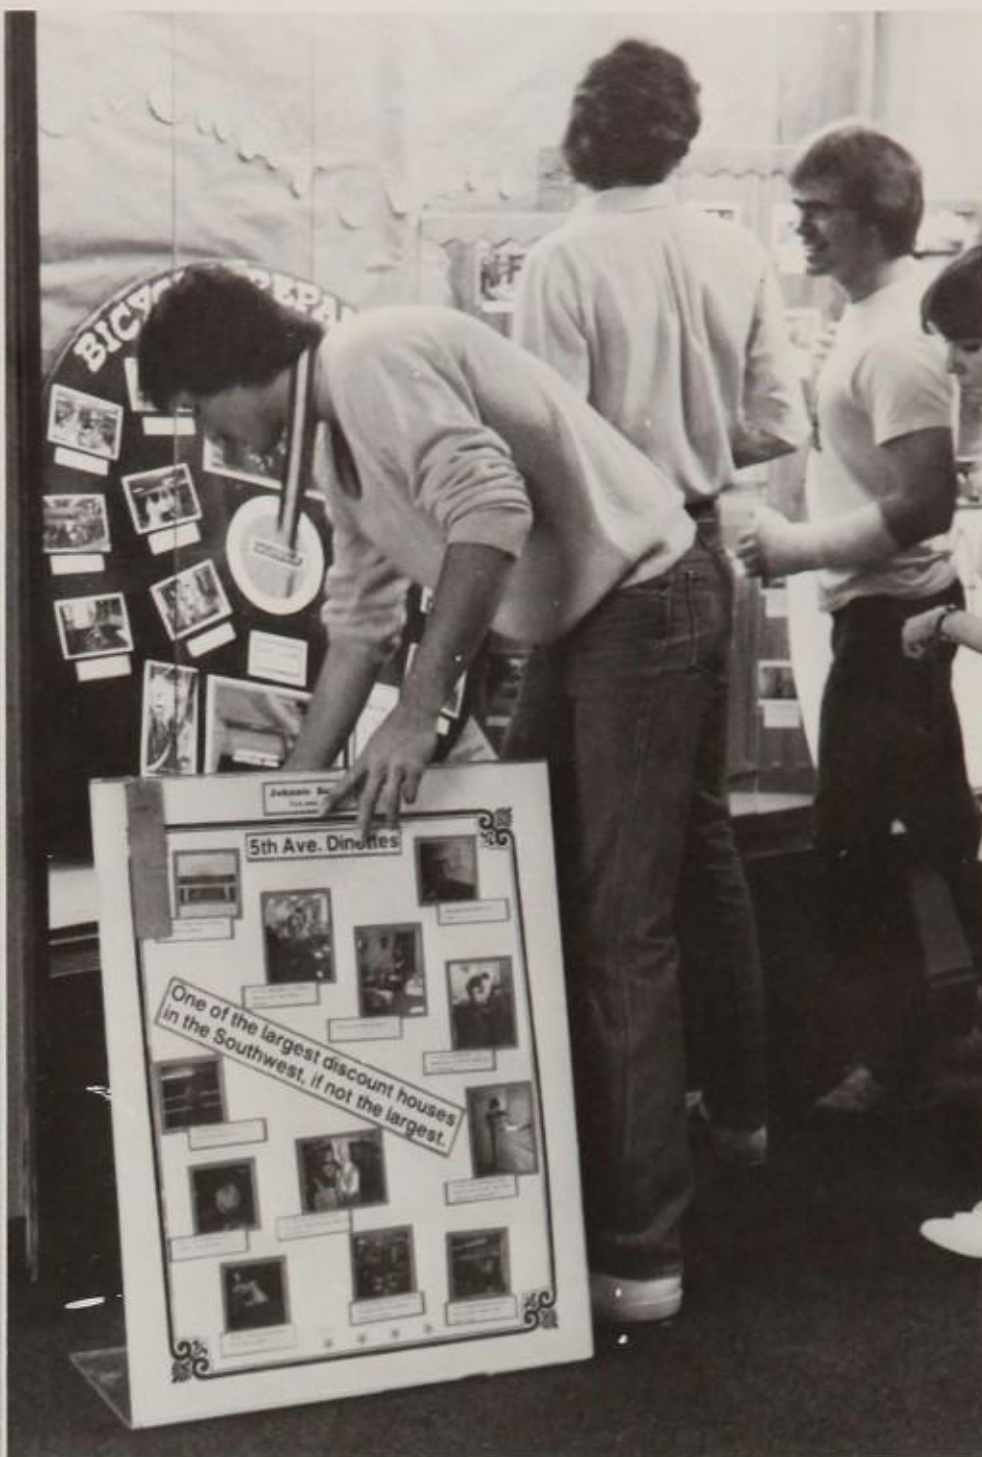

Electronics/Computer Technology developed a program allowing top students to work in technical related jobs such as those at Texas Instruments. The group also participated in Vocational Education Week at Collin Creek Mall. Students built and displayed digital electronics projects. VICA member Jim Garwacki placed first at the Area VII Speed/Skill Contest in the category of Logic Probe, qualifying him for state competition.

Students learn at work

VICA chapters of drafting, printing, and building trades built for the future in a variety of ways. Club members paired learning in an occupational field with actual experience. Building Trades VICA students continued their annual project of building and selling a house in Plano. The money raised from the sale of the house went to continue the project next year. Drafting VICA members not only received exposure to the field of architecture and engineering, but they participated in district and state contests and drew plans for a Dallas church. Printing VICA exercised their strengths at district and state contests and also kept the presses going in the shop producing school related materials.

Students go a over p e

A few forward-thinking students began to work toward the future in high school through AP classes. Beginning in their junior year students could take advance placement classes.

The Advanced Placement program offered instruction to prepare students for an AP exam. Depending on the required score for individual colleges, a student could place out of any number of college courses.

College level classes in which students could receive advanced instruction included biology, chemistry, computer science, English, European and American history, calculus, physics and studio art.

More than 350 students took 550 exams toward possible college credit.

With an eye on the future

After three months of summer vacation, it came back in a rush as timely as clockwork. All it took was the first scheduled varsity football game and Plano spirit erupted. T-shirt shops were besieged with orders. White shoe polish sales were up at local drugstores. The city took up its maroon and white banner. Support ran high for the athletes as fans clung together in search of a champion.

Cats win district to continue tradition

On a Friday night in September, Clark Field was filled with the sounds of an impatient crowd. Then in one unified voice, the stadium rose in a resounding cheer as the 1983 Plano Wildcats charged onto the field. This team carried with it a long winning tradition. In 1979, it began at Haggard Middle School. They won the eighth grade district championship that year and went on to win the sophomore district championship at Vines High School. Finally, 14 of these players earned positions on the Wildcat varsity football team. They, along with the other players, now heard the roar of the crowd as they raced onto the field. As seniors, they had their eye on two more championships. First, they sought the district title, and then they dreamed of a state championship.

From the very beginning, the Wildcats proved that they had the strength to handle the competition.

With the running attack of Scott Huckabay and David Thompson, Plano defeated three pre-district opponents. Recovering from last year's knee injury, quarterback Monty West led the Wildcats into district play. The powerful offense trampled J.J. Pearce and Lake Highlands. However, Lewisville proved to be a tough challenger. The predominately defensive contest was decided when kicker Scott Faulkner's extra point put Plano ahead 7 to 6.

Despite injuries to seven starters, the Wildcats defeated the Berkner Rams 31-14. The only threat that Plano faced during the remainder of the season was a fourth quarter rally attempt by Greenville at the homecoming game. Plano won the district 12-A AAAA championship with a perfect 10-0 record and as a result, entered the playoffs for the eighteenth time in 22 years.

Dreams fade at semi-finals

The familiarity of Clark Field was left behind as Plano entered the play-offs. Although some games were played at distant stadiums in threatening weather, Wildcat fans were always there to cheer their team on to another victory.

Plano ran past its first two opponents with fullback David Thompson rushing for over 100 yards in each game. Then, on a cold, rainy night in Waco, Plano faced its old rival, Temple. Fans huddled close under umbrellas and blankets to fend off the biting cold, as Plano fought off an explosive Temple offense. The key to the Plano win was the defense which forced three fumbles and stopped Temple's offense on an important fourth-and-one play, late in the fourth quarter. Their success continued with a 21-0 victory over Houston Klein. The highlight of the game was a 54-yard halfback pass from Scott Huckabay to Kevin Ford.

The next step, the semi-finals, were held on the dusty plains of Odessa against Midland Lee. Fans traveled the 370-mile distance by car, bus, and airplane to cheer on the Cats. The Rebels scored first, but the Wildcats answered with two of their own to lead at halftime. Although Plano entered the second half in control, nothing seemed to go right. On Midland's first possession, they surprised the Plano defense by driving 61 yards to even the score. In addition, Plano's scoring machine was silenced. Until early in the fourth quarter the stalemate was maintained by a defensive battle. Then the balance was broken when defensive mainstays Paul Meyers and Trey Dodson were forced to the sidelines with knee injuries. Midland Lee then completed an 80-yard drive to take the lead. Despite all of its efforts, Plano was unable to generate any momentum on offense.

As the last minutes ticked away, the fans saw their comeback hopes vanish and the team saw their championship dreams disappear. The Plano crowd demonstrated its devotion to the very end by repeatedly chanting, "We're from Plano, couldn't be prouder, if you can't hear us, we'll yell a little louder!"

As Plano drives toward the Houston Klein goal line, senior Monty West calls out the signals.

Efforts result in record wins for JV Football

Another Thursday night in the fall. For two hours, nothing else would matter. Concentration would center exclusively on winning.

Determination and frustration filled the mind. The coin was tossed, a moment of silence passed, and the game began.

"Offense!", then "Defense!" echoed from the stands.

The pressure mounted.

Once again, the practice that made perfect came through as the junior varsity football team racked up another victory. Experience became a good teacher as the JV began by defeating the Denton Broncos, with the defense basically responsible for the Wildcats first win. In the Lewisville game that followed, the Farmers scored early in the first quarter, but again the defense held to help Plano to the 12-7 victory. For the first time, Plano's JV played their crosstown rival, Plano East and was caught off guard. In a game marked by penalties, Plano East defeated Plano 14-6.

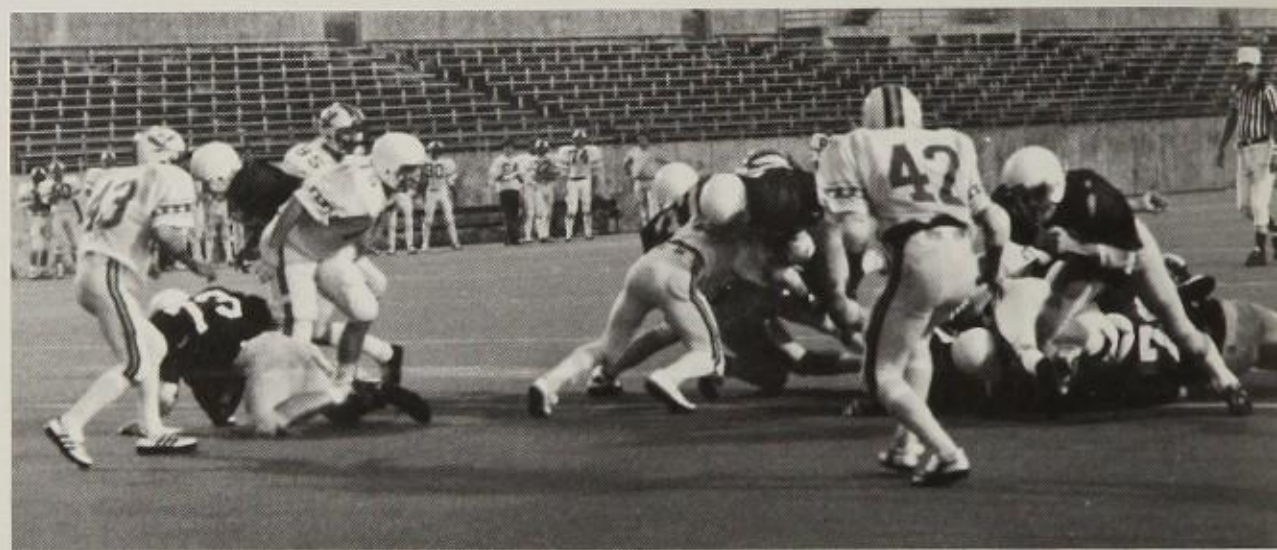

The Wildcats overpowered Richardson Pearce 21-6, and then met

Lake Highlands in a game that started off as an exhibition of offensive highlights but turned into a struggle between two stationary defenses. The game ended 14-14, giving Plano a record of 3-1-1. Meeting Lewisville for a second time was not easy. With the score tied 3-3 in the fourth quarter, the Wildcats took possession in the final four minutes and marched 60 yards to pull out a win, 10-3.

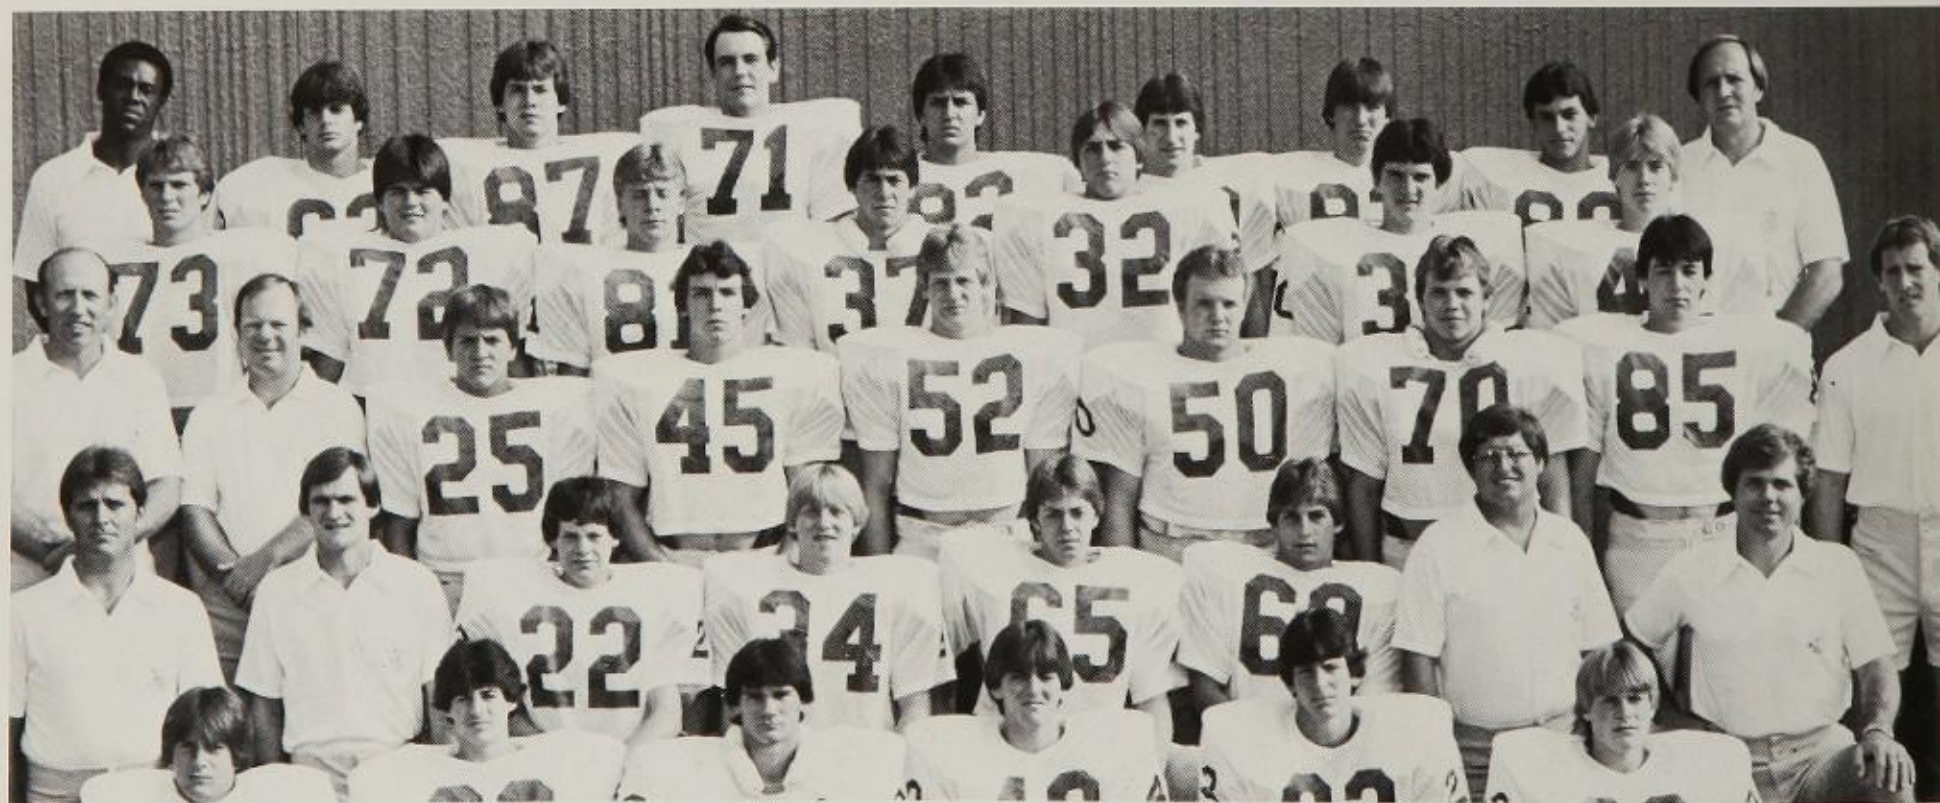

Plano then defeated Richardson Berkner to up their season's record to 5-1-1. In the next game against Richardson, running back Chad Ferrell rushed for 161 yards and three touchdowns, to give the Cats a 35-13 win. Plano capped its season off with a 7-2 victory over Greenville. Their season record was 7-1-1, the best record of any past junior varsity football team.

In retrospect, the hours of time spent, the sweat of each game seemed worth the effort, not only for this season but for the one to come.

Volleyball keeps scores at net

Although the volleyball team had a successful pre-season, the girls fell into a slump and could never repair their momentum. The spikers began their season play on a positive note, winning their first home game against Irving Nimitz. Although they lost their first set, the girls came back in the second set with a 15-1 score, and in the third set, 15-11. Senior Sandi Davison served for 12 points in the second set and junior Suzi Landry followed with another 12 in the third set.

Losing their next two games to North Mesquite and Turner, the girls managed a comeback against Sherman taking an overwhelming two set advantage to score 15-6 and 15-3.

The girls then fell to Pearce in first round district action. The next match was a split set against Lake Highlands in a best-of-three-game series with the girls losing 11-15, 19-17, and 3-15.

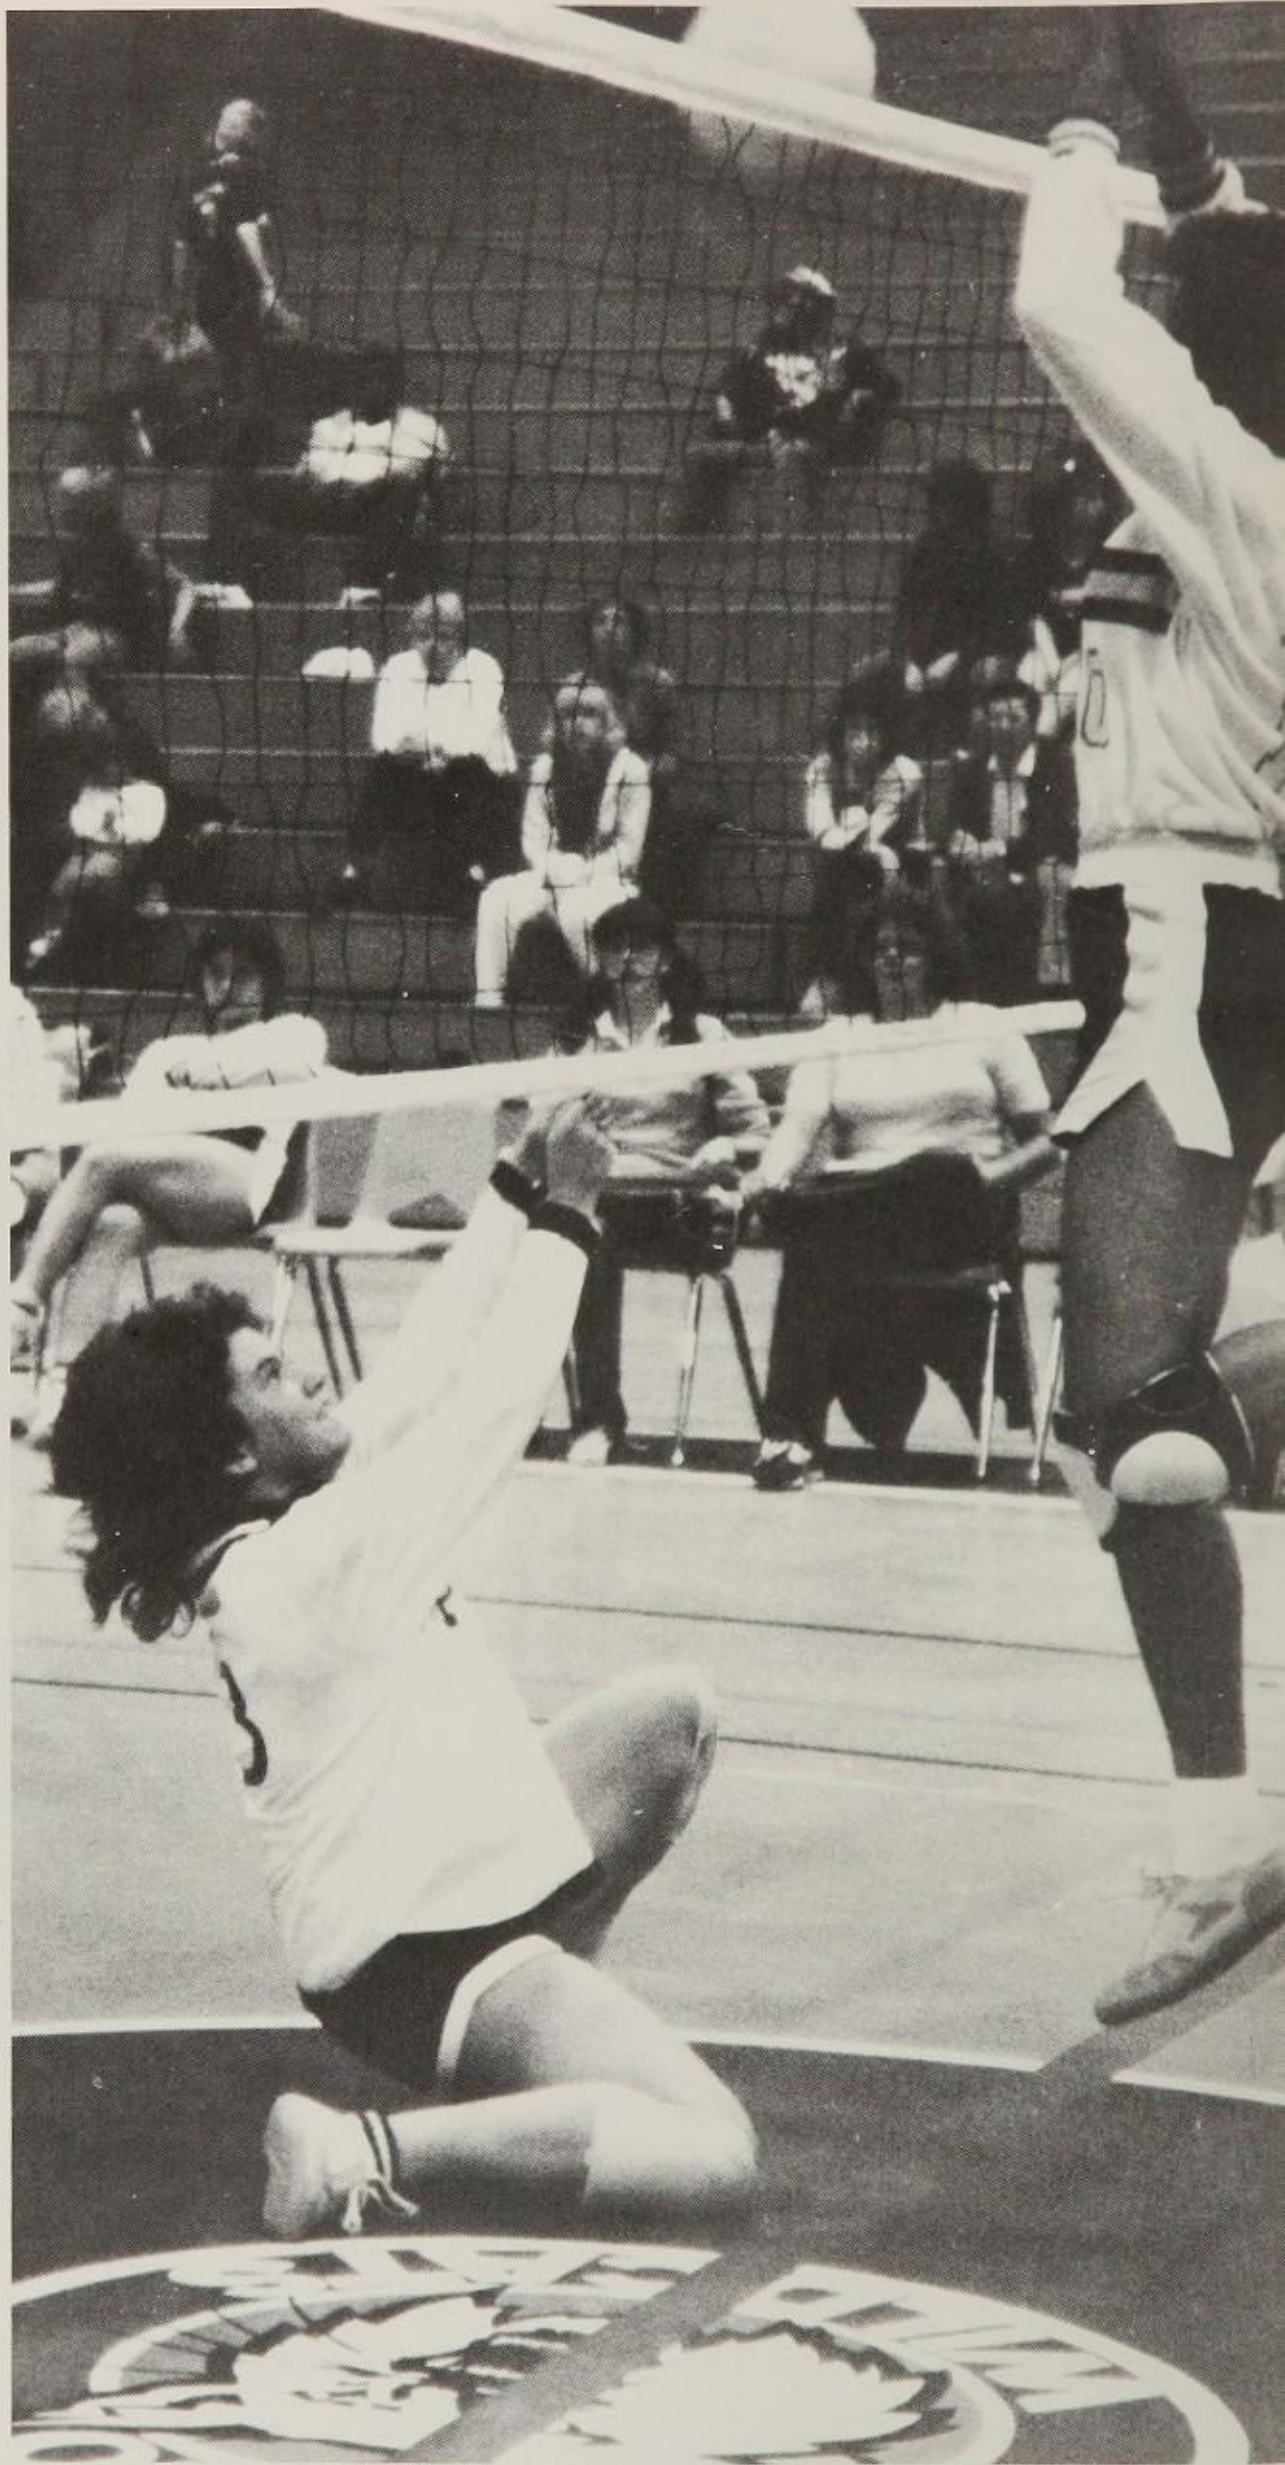

Winning the first set against Berkner, the team couldn't hold together and lost their next two sets to lose to the Rams.

"Our main problem was inconsistency. We had a breakdown on our defense," commented Coach Kathy Shackleford.

The East Texas State University Tournament exposed the girls to a variety of competitions. Plano lost to Greenville but overcame both Paris and Denison to capture a third place tournament slot. Seniors Traci Strohl and Sandi Davison were named to the All-Tournament Team. Sandi also made the All-Tournament Team at the Northlake Varsity Tourney.

"Tournaments were a big help to a young, inexperienced team like we were," said Coach Shackleford.

Following tournament action, the girls lost their next five games.

Throughout the competition, memories of matches were recalled.

Memories such as the successful first dual triumph over Lake Highlands in which junior John Fuller and senior Tim Dowd's victories raised the score from a close 28-23 to an uncatchable 40-23. And the Richardson Pearce game in which Tim Roach sparked a "domino" effect of consecutive victories by pinning Pearce's Scott McDowell in just a little over three minutes. Teammates followed suit and claimed five of the six remaining matches.

In the regionals, seniors Kevin Marston and Tim Liddy won their weight class and advanced to state finals.

On February 10-11, the State Championship Wrestling Tournament was held at R. L. Turner High School in Carrollton. Regional champions Kevin Marston and Tim Liddy were there to compete in their weight classes.

Senior Marston who wrestled at the 98-104 weight class, came home a state champion.

Senior Liddy received a sixth place title in the 135 weight class.

Both wrestlers had a very successful year. Marston's win marked a second state champion from the school. The first was Jim Collins in 1981.

Marston and Liddy's accomplishments would be remembered by Coach Taylor Webb and the individuals themselves.

Varsity rebounds after opening loss

Following a loss to John Tyler in the season opener, Coach Mike Bridges' varsity basketball team rebounded to dominate Abilene, Haltom, and North Dallas in pre-district action.

Going into district with their hopes high, the roundballers quickly ran into trouble. Plano lost to PESH and then to Lake Highlands before they came back to win three consecutive games.

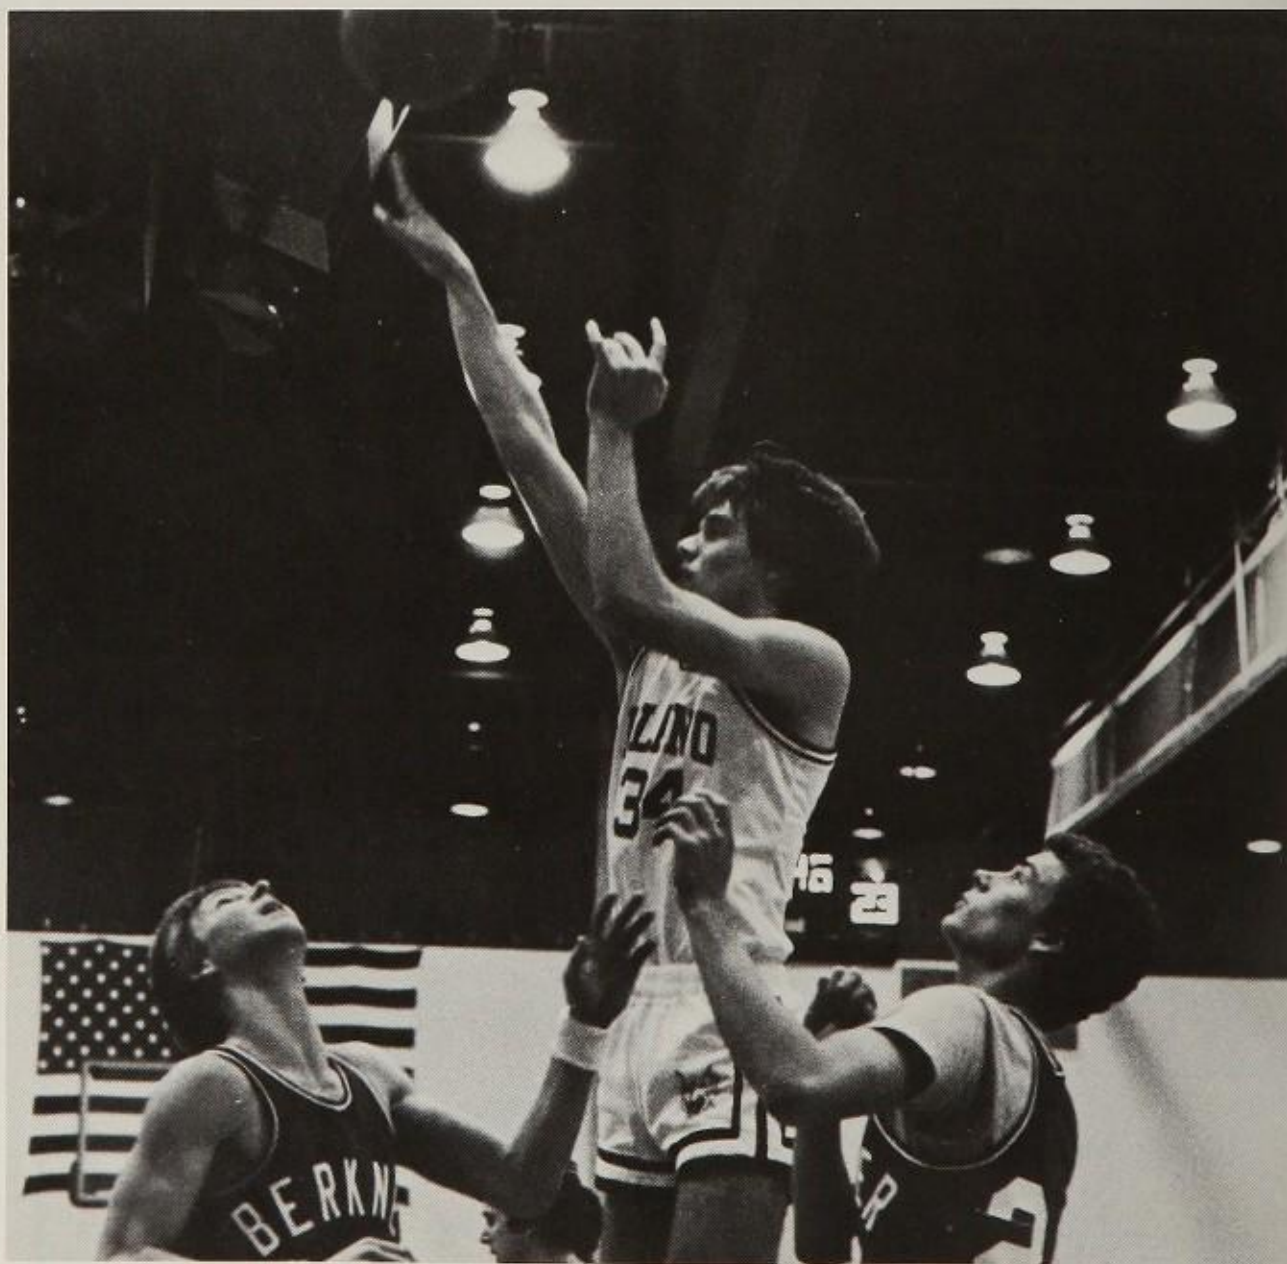

Midway into the season, Plano managed to make history by defeating the PESH team in their second meeting. This was the first time Plano had defeated the other Plano school since its opening. The Cats had to overcome the pace set by the Panthers with a steady offensive drive. Taking the lead in the fourth quarter, the Cats held on with determination to clench their fifth district win.

In one of their best games of the year, Plano beat Pearce with junior Horace Myrick playing an excellent game and teammate Stan McKinley shooting for 18 points.

With a playoff berth still in reach, the team's fate was decided in a close game against Berkner in which the Rams took the Cats by two points.

Plano ended the season on a positive note by defeating Lewisville to finish fourth in the district.

Consistency: Key to efforts of JV team

Team control coupled with patience was the key to the victories credited to the junior varsity basketball team.

With pre-district games in their favor, 3-2, the Wildcats took first place at the Plano JV Tournament, defeating Denton, Vines, and Denison. This tournament title was one of the highlights of the team's pre-district season. Coach Ike Brown praised the team for consistency and outstanding work in gaining the top honor.

After a win over Centennial, followed by a loss to Temple, Plano closed out their pre-district competition in style, completely dominating Grand Prairie 71-34. This win prepared the team for a crucial district season, beginning with a match-up against PESH. With Coach Brown's philosophy of being consistent, the Wildcats easily handled the Panthers.

Plano proved its strength again by defeating Lake Highlands and Richardson. Those wins, although only by two points, gave the team a spotless district record.

Then came Pearce. Just as the Cat's did to Lake Highlands and Richardson, the Pearce Mustangs did to Plano by one basket, handing the Cats their first district loss. Even a rougher time was ahead. Against Greenville the Cats fell by nine points.

Snapping back to place, Plano won their next four games, including another crucial game against PESH in an overtime performance.

Two more losses followed, but as was their fashion, the team finished the season with three consecutive district wins.

During the midseason blowout over Berkner, junior Allen Lee goes for the goal.

Poised girls take third at Invitational

At home, a 6 a.m. alarm sounded in preparation for the 7 a.m. practice, one of two to be held daily. A varsity girl basketball player had 30 minutes to get to school. She practiced diligently under the direction of head coach Polly McKeon and her new assistant coach, Jennifer Graves. They built a team with ten juniors and five seniors, including one returning starter. Beginning the year with a new slate, the girl's basketball team held an intramural scrimmage.

Losing their first three games, the girls managed a win in the fourth out against Sherman, 38-29. Forward Sandi Davison shot for seven points in the second quarter with 5'8" Terri Rogers emerging after halftime to contribute 11 points. From here, the girls gained enough poise to capture third place at the Plano Invitational held at Plano East Senior High. The team marked its first district win by defeating Pearce, 51-32.

"Our man-to-man and zone pressing defense made for a big lead against Pearce," said Coach McKeon. After a disappointing loss to Lewisville, the girls got back on their feet to upset Plano East, 44-34, after an 11 point halftime deficit.

The girls then claimed another victory against Pearce by trouncing them 63-35. In an outstanding effort, junior Michelle Ehringer banked in 14 points to contribute to the win.

Greenville put up a good fight against the Wildcats, but Plano took the short victory on its home court, 36-33. It was Berkner's team who broke the short winning streak as they closed Plano down, 44-42. The team wrapped up the season with a tough loss to Lewisville, 59-51.

Shooting from the outside, senior Kristal Hammock tries to achieve a two-point goal.

Swimmers plunge into record season

With an array of outstanding individual and team accomplishments, the swimming team completed another successful season.

After a slow start in competitions, the swimmers made a heroic comeback with the girls finishing first and the boys third in regional competition. The road to the regionals included team victories over Newman Smith, Trinity, and Plano East.

The girls collected three first place finishes over Plano East and Trinity with an impressive 116 points, compared to Trinity's 67 points. The boys team decided to make their first place finish a little closer. The Cats racked up 93 points, just edging out the Plano East team with 81 points.

In both the medley and freestyle relays, the girls team set records. Outstanding freestyle swimmer Stephanie Langham set records at 50, 100, and 500 yards. Stephanie also shattered the former 100-yard backstroke record.

A total of eleven swimmers went to

UIL state competition in Austin. Boy swimmers included Mike Russell, Mike Collins, Tom Kehoe, Keith Yeager, Chris Lamke, and Wray Weinrich. The girls sent Stefani Langham, Mary Waller, Barbara Neily, Jill Dodson, and Ann Brashears to state competition in March. The girls' team claimed seventh place.

"Overall, the season really went well for all of the swimmers," said team captain Kevin Hill.

At the Trinity Invitational, senior Mike Collins warms up for the 100-meter butterfly.

Boy's soccer team places second in zone

Opening its most successful season in recent history, the boy's soccer team swept to a first place in the R.L. Turner Tourney by defeating three teams. Then, showing off before a home crowd at Clark Field, the boys shut out John Tyler, 5-0. Senior Keith Phildius scored two goals and brought the team to a 3-0 halftime advantage. Landing two goals in the second half drove the Cats to the 5-0 shutout of the John Tyler team.

The momentum gained by their early season victories carried the soccer team to the John Tyler Tourney where they had two wins. In their first district game the team faced the Denton Broncos. The Cats managed to effectively shut down the Denton offense for a 2-0 victory.

Following an upset loss, the team drove back in the next two games to tie both Lake Highlands and Sherman. Although they had the home team advantage, Plano then lost to Pearce 3-0.

With renewed vigor, Plano rolled over Berkner for a 3-0 victory. Only 10 minutes into the second half, John Richardson volleyed a goal and set the pace for teammate John McMIndes who scored on a cross ball by winger Guy Diedrich. On the last drive of the game, forward Keith Phildius moved in for a third score and finished Berkner off 3-0. The Cats went on to defeat Lewisville. This win helped Plano to a second place in zone standings behind Lake Highlands. Although they lost their next game to Lake Highlands, their 12 season wins were enough to get them into the zone playoffs. The team was overpowered by Pearce in the first round of competition and this loss ended their season.

"Looking back, we had a successful year. We won a tournament and we finished second without a tie in zone action," summed up Coach Bob Weir.

Record cold burns out seven teams

They prepared long and hard for the coldest season ever, but the varsity girl's soccer team gave a lesson in the sport to several teams. With the home team advantage in their first game against R.L. Turner, the girls scored four goals in the first 17 minutes. Senior Kendra Bartels, an all-district player as a junior, scored two unassisted goals in a three minute period. Junior Shelley Anders cracked the nets twice in eight minutes, one unassisted, and one off of a corner kick. During the first half, Plano kept the ball on its own end. Turner managed only one shot in the second half.

"We had lots of chances in the first half. We controlled the ball, we just had to be patient," said Coach Dianne Davey about the win.

Next, the girls hosted the Plano Invitational in which they swept the championship. Goal keeper Michelle Gilmore, center halfback Shelley Anders, right halfback Amy DeGroot, and center forward Kendra Bartels, were named to the all-tournament squad. They accomplished their first district win by tearing apart the Bronco defense, 9-0.

The meeting with PESH was perhaps the coldest game of the year. Temperatures in the 30's didn't slow the girls down as they blasted the Panthers, 9-0. Following, the Cats faced three Richardson teams, the Richardson Eagles, Berkner, and Lake Highlands. In the defensive confrontation between last year's two district representatives, Plano tied Richardson, 1-1. Back at home, the game with the Denton Broncos saw heavy turnovers. The tired defenses of both teams ended in the highest scoring game of the season, with Plano winning 10-6. Pearce made a comeback in their second game with Plano, to give the Cats their only defeat. It was this loss though that kept the girls from the playoffs. Gaining back their momentum from the loss and a tie with Richardson for a second time, the Lady Cats finished a successful season shutting out the last four teams.

Batters district bid falls short

In a year that had the baseball team riding a series of peaks and valleys as a bid for a district playoff spot fell short, Plano East stole the playoff berth on the last day of the season.

It all started relatively normal. Plano went 3-2 in the early going, as they prepared for district competition. Pearce then set the tone for the season when the Mustangs left the Wildcats standing with their mouths open and a 12-8 upset.

"Four of the players we walked went on to score. "And, what did we lose by? Four runs. That was the difference right there," noted Coach Terry Tuck.

It was not until three games later that Plano got their first taste of victory in District 12-AAAAA. With an 0-3 record looking them square in the eyes, Plano showed a little character in its first district win. In the last inning of their March 27 game against Berkner, Plano rallied for two late runs to win and give them a 1-3 district record.

Then, things started to click for Tuck's squad. Over the next few weeks, Plano won 6 of 10 games including a key victory over Plano East. With revenge a big motivation in the game of baseball, and the notion of a possible playoff berth, the stage was set for a wild finale as PESH came to the west side May 3 looking to even up the score.

At the Plano vs. PESH game, senior David Thompson follows through on a swing.

Playoff battle pits two home teams

It all ended for the Wildcats on a fine spring day in May. A playwright couldn't have written a better script: Crosstown rivals battling it out, head to head, on the last day of the season for one final playoff spot. Only one team would keep playing, so it was only fitting that the game would go into extra innings. Sure, why not, it was a perfect script. Plano was down three runs going into the seventh inning. They had to at least tie it to force the game into extra innings. Just like that, the runs were on the board and the two teams which had scratched, struggled, and fought so hard the entire game were starting all over like the previous seven innings hadn't even been played. Plano East promptly scored a run in the eighth inning and the Wildcats, who had tied the game in the seventh, scoring three runs like they could just turn some magical switch on and off at will, failed to produce a single run, and it was over. Just like that. A single run proved to be the margin between going on or going home. But as they say, someone has to win and someone has to lose.

Just basic baseball brings success to team

Just basic baseball. No special tactics or strategies. The straight-forward process produced a winning team for Coach Gerald Brence as his varsity baseball team became the No. 1 team in District 12-AAAAA. In the beginning against Clark High School, the Wildcats dominated the game from the first. Knocking out eight runs in the first inning, Plano set the pace with 18 total hits. Juniors Rob Burns, Chuck Difiglia and Dwight Miles led the Cats for an 18-7 blowout against the Cougars. Pitcher Bill Heffernan struck out five batters. Plano had an even easier time with their next opponent, Thomas Jefferson. The Cats led early in the game, producing nine runs by the second inning. Difiglia led the Cats in hitting, with a double and four RBI. Plano went on to defeat Thomas Jefferson 12-0. The Wildcats continued undefeated, even when matched against Wylie's varsity. In one of their most crucial games of the season, the Cats had come from an early deficit of 6-1 to win 12-2. Keyed by outstanding hitter Tim McGuire, who hit .545 for the season, Plano soundly defeated Lake Highlands in five innings 13-2. Scott Johnson notched his first victory as pitcher against the red and blue Wildcats. The team finished the season undefeated. Amazing what "just basic baseball did for a team."

Tennis out volleys district opponents

Depth played a crucial role as the tennis team combined individual talents for an undefeated spring season and a 12-3 fall record.

Opening the season against R.L. Turner, the team showed strength in the 11-7 victory. Plano continued its show of force against Plano East with outstanding performances by girls' team members Debbie Goodman and Cathy Ruggeri. The lady netters led the Cats to an 11-7 victory.

Plano ran into bad luck when they met Lake Highlands. Although the teams tied 9-9, Lake Highlands was declared the winner 20-19 in sets. The Cats were down 5-1 in doubles and the singles couldn't overcome the deficit. In singles, though, Plano won 8 of 12 matches including five of six in girls play. It was Debbie Goodman 2-6, 6-2, 6-3; Jennifer Wright 6-2, 6-0; Jill Scarbrough 6-1, 6-1; Cathy Ruggeri 6-2, 6-1, and Ragan Hobbs 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

In the district tournament, Plano avenged its loss to Lake Highlands 11-7. The Cats then fought off Richardson 12-6 to win their third district championship. Outstanding district efforts were made by the girls doubles team of Debbie Goodman and Tracy Santrock. Singles competitor Jennifer Wright finished third and was named most valuable player. A third was also taken by mens' doubles team of Brian Pence and John Pesnell.

The storybook season ended in

Boys win first time out

Starting off the season with a bang, the boys track team participated in the Bishop Lynch Invitational and took home first place after beating out seven other teams.

After inconsistent placing in the next four meets, the Cats managed a sixth in the Adamson Meet. Senior Jeff Farrell was the top finisher for Plano, placing second in the pole vault competition. Teammate Doug Axtell was another high finisher as he placed third in the shot put.

In running events, long distance runner Mark Rose placed fourth in the two-mile run and Plano's Mike Malone was fourth in the 200 meter run.

The Wildcats duplicated their standing in the Plano Relay Meet to take sixth place out of 12 teams. First in the shot put competition was senior Scott Huckabay, while Rose took third in the 5,000 meter run. Girls track spotlights individuals

Girls Track

Regular workouts began in February for the girl's track team. The Tri Meet at Newman Smith gave the team early competitive experience with two first place finishes and seven second places.

At the first official meet at Allen High School, runners Dara Bailey, Kathy Hassel, and Carolyn Warren placed in the top three in each of their events. Their efforts gave Plano a second place overall. Although the year started with a lot of momentum, success did not follow the team as the girls did not place well as a team in the remaining competitions.

The bright spots that followed were individual efforts with senior Kathy Hassel, a standout. With the 800-meter dash her specialty, Kathy finished first three times and second once in the regular season. She finished first in the event in district, second in regionals and fourth in state.

Cross Country

"Team running," that was the concept brought to Plano by new girl's cross country coach Jennifer Graves.

"This concept is sometimes difficult to coach at a school like this because most of the runners come from a variety of other sports. With many of them committed to other sports, the cross country team only qualified for three meets," said Coach Graves.

Cross Country competitor Stephanie Tolle placed ninth and had two fourteenth place finishes in district. Teammate Kathy Hassell finished in thirteenth place or better in each outing and qualified for regionals by placing fifth at the Norbuck Park District Meet. A hip injury kept Kathy from placing high in regionals although she placed fortieth with an excellent time of 13.08.

The formation of a JV girl's cross country team produced a first place win at district with junior runners Kim Cannaday, Sherry Hugg, Pam Balog, Julie Admunson, and Tabatha Kindred taking first through fifth places.

Under the direction of another new coach, Roger Taylor, the boy's cross country team began the season with two fourth place finishes.

The team then fell into a slump until Coach Taylor initiated additional workouts to compensate for weaknesses. The practices resulted in a third place at Duncanville and the season's highlight — a first place at Hillcrest. Second year runner Mark Rose finished third at the meet with junior Manosh Chadhuri placing second at Hillcrest and later taking sixth at District.

Cross country runner Kathy Hassell finishes the Plano Meet with a time of 13:30.

Coach emphasizes precision in season of rebuilding

The quiet sport of golf requires a solid swing, nerves of steel, and precise strategy. Coach Jay Stevens has been developing these skills in his golf team throughout his nine years of coaching.

"While this year's team had a lot of talent, it lacked experience and discipline. Therefore, this season was one in which the team worked on developing its skills. We had a lot of young men working very diligently," said Coach Stevens.

The golf team began competitive play at the Eldorado Golf Club Tournament sponsored by J. J. Pearce. Although they had many hours of pre-season practice, Plano's team finished a disappointing 6th. The team then followed with a third place in the Tanglewood Tournament sponsored by Highland Park. The team was unable to continue its successful performance though and at the Paris Golf Club, they managed only a 6th place finish. The trend continued with two 5th places and another 6th place. The team accelerated its practice schedule in preparation for its final two big tournaments.

The Dallas Morning News Invitational Tournament held bright prospects for the golf team, but they fell short of their goal with a 5th place. Finally, the team displayed an improvement during the District Tournament at the Greenville Golf Club and the Sherrill Park Golf Course. A combination of solid tee shots and accurate putting brought the golf team a 4th place finish at District.

"The team has set up a rigorous summer training schedule; I anticipate a much improved and predominately senior golf team next year," said Coach Stevens.

Occur World-Wide

The sky roared with the sounds of 70 pound shells being shot towards shore. The U.S. destroyer John Rodgers and the nuclear powered cruiser Virginia, hurled 600 pounds into the forests of Beirut. Navy officers journeyed into the hills of Lebanon to aid the U.S. Navy in spotting their targets. (right) An American Flag and a U.S. Marine stand by as rescue workers sort through the ruins of the American Embassy in Beirut, which was hit by a terrorist bomb, killing many and wounding more than 100.

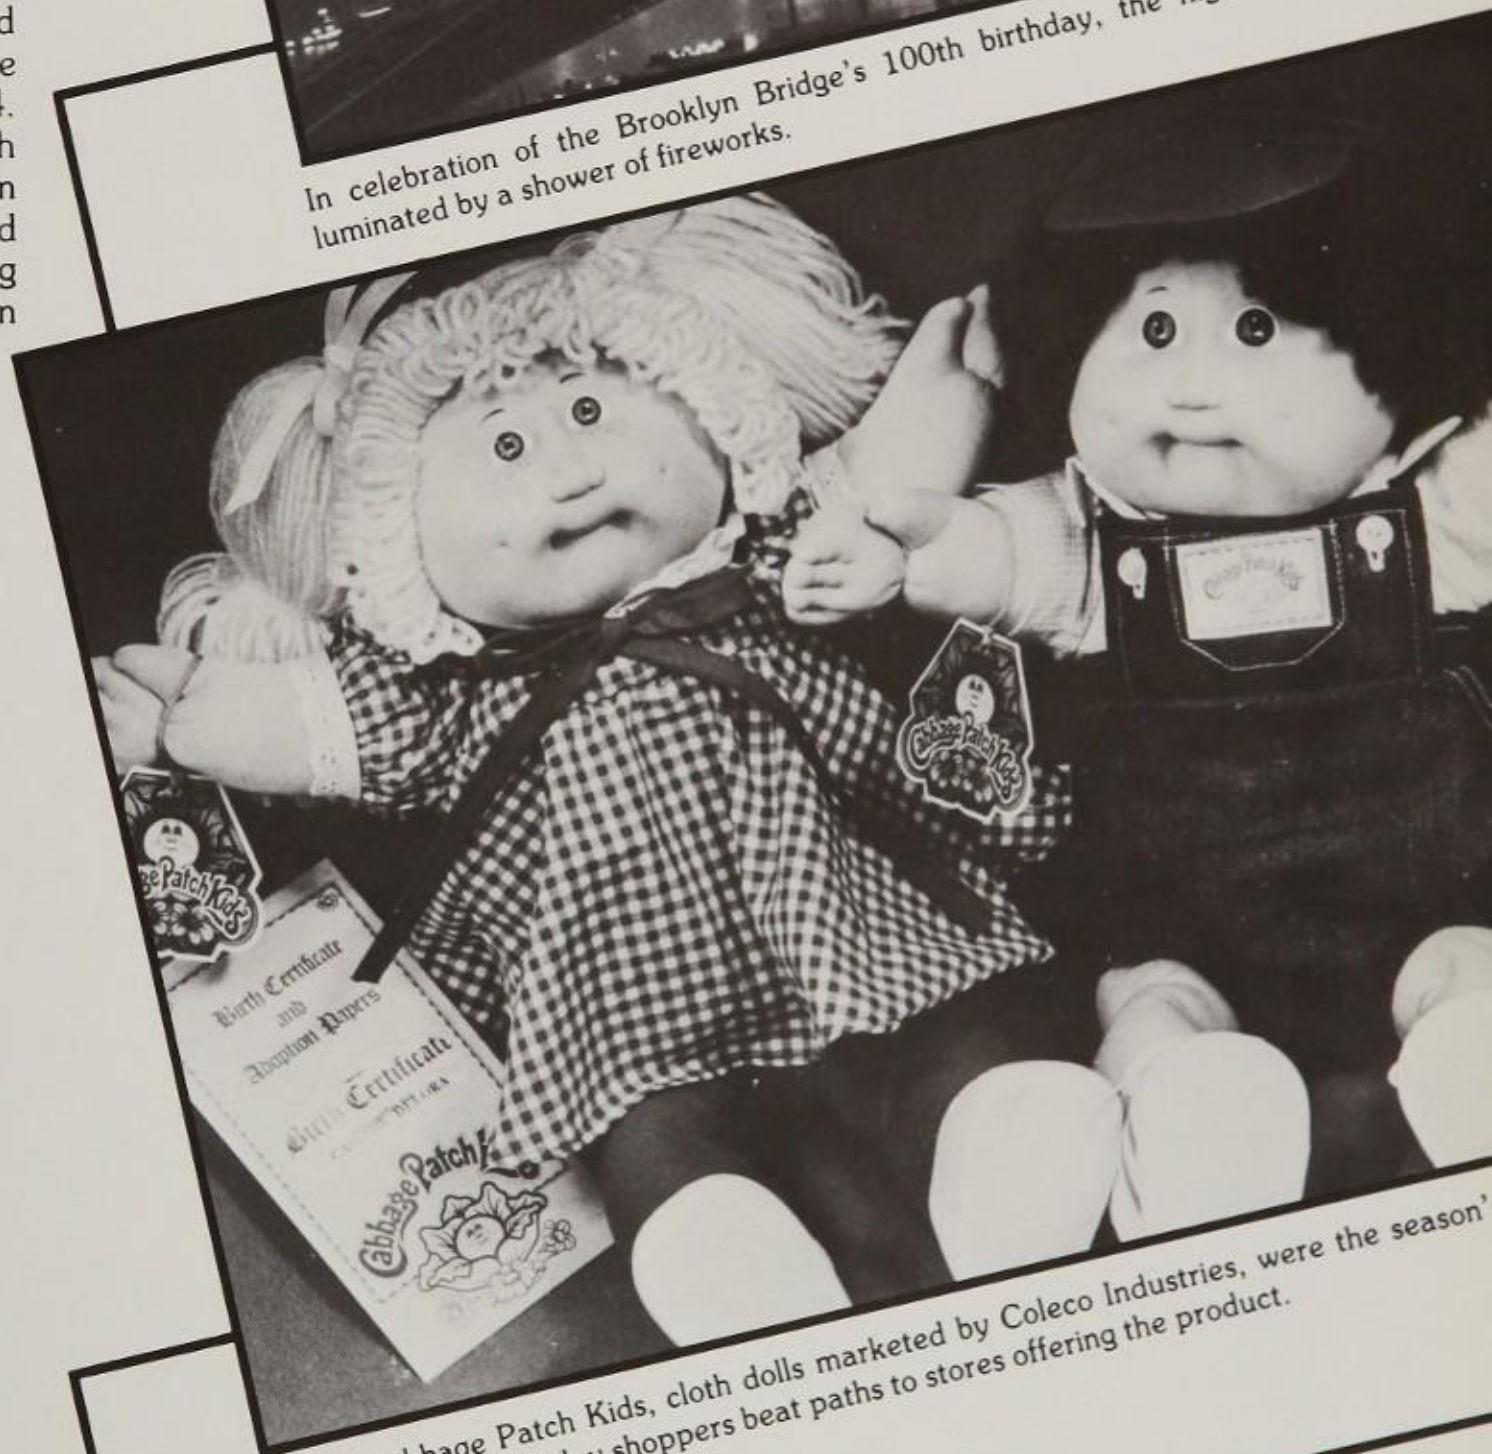

Cincinnati Red's catcher Johnny Bench (above) and Boston Red Sox Slugger Carl Yastrzemski (below), both retired in 1983. Bench, with a .258 batting record, led the National League in homeruns and received baseball's MVP award in 1970 and 1972. He also led the National League in RBI's in 1970, 1972, and 1974. Yastrzemski, a lefthanded batter with a .275 record led the American League in home runs, RBIs, received the MVP award, and was the batting champion in 1967. His home run record totaled 442.

Following a Marxist revolution, the Grenadians were relieved when the American soldiers arrived on the tropical island. Round-the-clock curfews were lifted. The island's popular leader Maurice Bishop, and more than 100 citizens were gunned down on one of the bloodiest days in the city's history. In celebration of the Brooklyn Bridge's 100th birthday, the night sky is illuminated by a shower of fireworks.

The Cabbage Patch Kids, cloth dolls marketed by Coleco Industries, were the season's toy craze, and holiday shoppers beat paths to stores offering the product.

The campus pond was a popular place in spring as students took advantage of the sunny weather and one hour lunch break.

Footloose and fancy free

Snowball fights before Christmas vacation, lunchtime spent by the pond in spring, and, for some, the preparation for graduation will be recalled long past May 30, the last day of school. Memories of high school will remain the rest of our lives.

Before school, junior Barb Neily has a Coke in the cafeteria.

During Science Club's stay at Galveston Island, junior Lisa Elliott peeks out of her tent.

Senior Todd Westberg opts for playground fun during lunch.

LIFE GOES ON

The doors were locked; the halls were quiet. Teachers recorded the final grades and administrators worked on last minute details for graduation.

Outside those doors, it was jubilation for the seniors and a welcome break for the juniors. In some cases jobs replaced school while in others, the immediate freedom from obligations was enough.

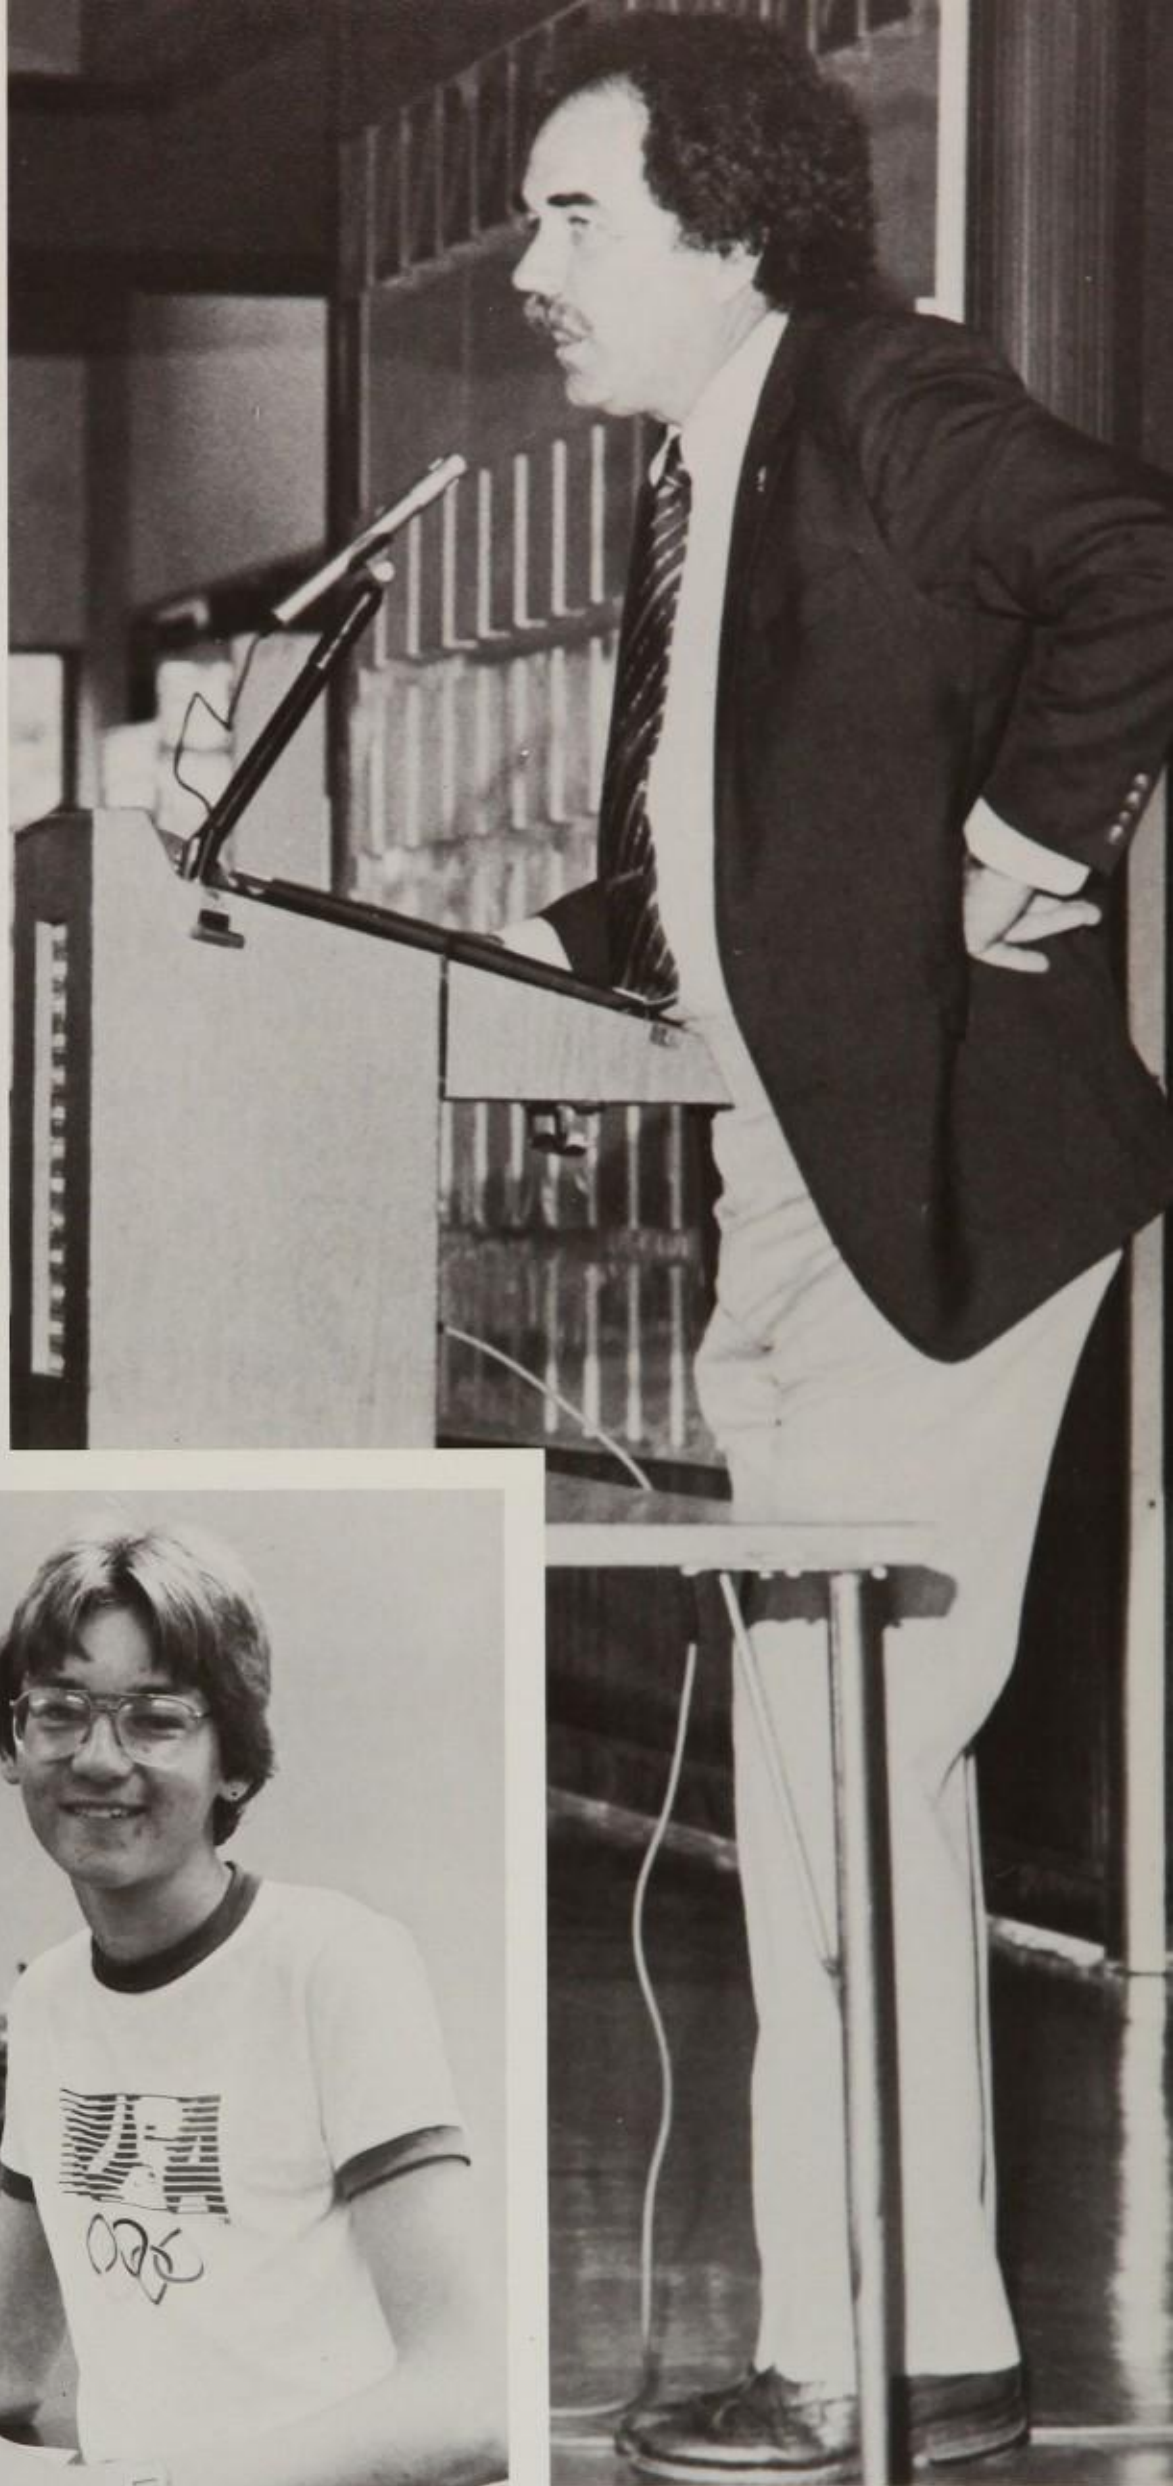

Office aide Janice Hughes ties ribbons to go around the diplomas for the graduating seniors.

On their last day of school, seniors Rex Requilman and Stacey Sherman leave from Building B after a strenuous day of exams.

In the final weeks of preparing for graduation, senior Robyn Zeff picks up her cap and gown.

Principal Sherman Millender speaks with seniors and their parents on financial aid for college.

With the help of registrar Jean McDaniel, senior Kevin Kalbac orders a final transcript.
